The plane carried 11 persons, including Lindbergh, Mrs. Lindbergh and officials of the Pan-American Airways, for which Lindbergh is opening the new route along the Caribbean and Central America.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(UP)—The investigation into lobbying activities of shipbuilding companies was broadened today beyond alleged activities at the 1927 Geneva conference to include all lobbying activities of shipbuilding companies for the last five years.

The senate naval subcommittee decided to broaden the investigation at the suggestion of Senator Allen, Republican, Kansas, a member who is generally regarded as representing President Hoover in the investigation into lobbying activities of William B. Shearer, self styled naval expert, which began today.

Shortly after the morning session opened Attorney Daniel F. Cohan, of New York, representing Shearer, asked that his client be the first witness.

"I submit to the committee," he said, "that in the face of charges made against Shearer by the president and by Senator Robinson, Democrat, Arkansas, on the floor of the senate that he should be given an opportunity to state what he did at Geneva."

"What Shearer did at that conference was to uphold the administration in power in its fight for parity at sea."

Chairman Shortridge declined to grant Cohan's request and Clinton L. Bardo, president of the New York Shipbuilding company, was called as the first witness.

Shearer sat in the front row. He was nattily dressed in a blue suit. He wore a red striped tie and a silk handkerchief projected from his pocket.

One of the first questions Shortridge asked Bardo was whether he would submit the company's records.

"We have nothing to conceal," said Bardo. "We are here voluntarily at the request of the commission and we are ready and willing to give the committee all information it desires with regard to Mr. Shearer."

Bardo explained his company is constructing for the government two light cruisers, the Salt Lake City and the Pensacola.

He said he had heard of the Geneva conference several months before in newspapers but was not particularly interested in it although he admitted there was a provision in the contract that would require the cancelling of contracts if limitations was agreed upon.

Bardo said he had no one representing him at the Geneva conference.

"Did you have any one employed in connection with that conference?"

"Yes."

Bardo said Shearer was employed at a conference in New York, March 17, 1927, at which

PARIS, Sept. 20.—(UP)—The film truce which was signed by French and American producers and seems assured of immediate approval by the French cinema control commission was generally acclaimed by the French press and in theaters which had been deprived of American feature films during the 11-month dispute.

After the agreement under which the state contingent system will be continued for a maximum of two years, the United Press was informed unofficially by the ministry of Beaux Arts that the government was satisfied with the terms of the truce and that its approval at the meeting of the film control commission next Tuesday would be a mere formality.

Despite the pleas of French exhibitors, American distributors decided today to wait until Tuesday before resuming distribution. Preparations were made for reinstatement of 1,000 employees temporarily discharged at American distributing offices pending an agreement of the dispute.

Only six American films have been submitted for examination for license within the last seven months but each distributor now holds scores of films ready for license examination as soon as the control commission accepts the truce.

The agreement virtually ended the dispute which was climaxed by threats of American producers to SUISUN, Calif., Sept. 20.—(UP)—The sun-baked hills and gullied range lands of Solano county have surrendered the body of Irene Wolfkill, eccentric self-styled "Empress of the World," and an investigation with murder a possibility, was under way today.

The body of the 57-year-old spinster heiress of a famous California family, was found last night by Bernard Glashoff, 18, a rancher's son and the mystery of her strange disappearance July 14 was solved in part. The manner of her death, however, remained to puzzle authorities.

For years the spinster was a character of northern California, partly because she was a member of an old family, the heiress to nearly $1,000,000, and partly because of her delusion that "this and all I see are a part of my kingdom."

Wandering through the hills she loved, ever worried because of her possessions, which her distorted mind envisioned as including all the earth, Miss Wolfkill was last seen July 14.

She was dressed that day in ankle-length skirts and her long strides were literally eating up the distance as she hiked toward the sunset over the foothills.

Clad in Overalls

When found the body was clad in a pair of brown men's overalls.

Her failure to return home caused anxiety and for days men rode through the valleys and over the hills, hunting the "Empress," dead or alive.

Wooden valley creek, a few miles from here, is where young Glashoff stumbled on the body by accident. As a result he will collect the $5,000 reward offered by her brothers, Matt and Ney, wealthy Southern Californians.

A mysterious element is that the region where the body was found was the scene of an extensive search in the days after the disappearance of the "Empress." Five hundred men, with dogs to lead them, trailed through the valley on their way to the hills day after day, but did not see the body if it was there then.

An inquest will be held here late today at which time an effort will be made to determine the cause of death. This was not possible earlier because the body was badly decomposed, making examination difficult.

Two theories are offered. One is that Miss Wolfkill became lost, fell from exhaustion and died.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20.—(UP)—The introduction of evidence was concluded and arguments to the jury started today in the trial of Mrs. Lois Pantages, accused of the murder of Juro Rokumoto, Japanese.

Each side ended rebuttal testimony before noon and Deputy District Attorney Harold Jones opened the final addresses by which the state hopes to clinch its case against the wealthy matron.

Since Superior Judge Carlos Hardy ruled there was to be no session of court tomorrow it was held unlikely that the case could reach the jury until Tuesday.

Before Jones started to speak the defense made its last attempts to have the case dismissed.

Judge Hardy first denied a motion to have the charges withdrawn and he then declined to act on a defense request to reduce the count from murder to manslaughter.

Likewise the jurist refused to strike from the records testimony of five witnesses who swore that Mrs. Pantages was intoxicated when her automobile crashed into the one driven by Rokumoto.

In deciding to not hold court tomorrow, Judge Hardy said that he had promised the jury a day of recreation on Saturday and "besides it has always been my custom to attend the county fair which also is being held tomorrow."

Because of the various motions to be disposed of, Deputy Jones did not begin his argument until the afternoon session.

He was to be followed by W. I. Gilbert for the defense. Max Steuer, of New York, will close the defense arguments and Chief Deputy James Costello will sum up for the state.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20.—(UP)—H. L. Carnahan, lieutenant governor, and Edgar C. Levey, speaker of the assembly, today announced the appointment of members of four committees authorized by assembly resolutions at the last session of legislature.

They were as follows:

Joint committee to study street improvement laws and recommend legislation to correct and modernize existing street improvement procedure.

Senators—Charles W. Lyon, Los Angeles; Daniel C. Murphy, San Francisco, and Frank C. Weller, Los Angeles.

Assemblymen—Emory J. Arnold, Los Angeles; Walter J. Little, Los Angeles; Harry Lyons, Los Angeles, and Clara Woolwine, Los Angeles.

Joint committee to investigate and report factors contributing to development of natural resources and other features of the Pacific coast line and the land and water areas contiguous thereto.

Senators—Frank S. Boggs, Stockton; Walter H. Duval, Santa Paula; Nelson T. Edwards, ACTUAL preparations for the hearing which the board of supervisors will hold next Thursday and Friday in the court-house, in which the relations between Charles Carrillo, court interpreter, and the Mexican people will be investigated, were under way today.

The district attorney's office today announced that it wished to inform the Mexican people of Orange county that it will welcome any information which they may have relative to the activities of Carrillo. The announcement to this effect was made through Chief Deputy District Attorney L. W. Blodgett.

Blodgett pointed out that the request for information was directed at anyone who has information or wishes to present it on either side of the affair. In other words, those who wish to present information to the credit of Carrillo, as well as those who have stories of the opposite nature, have been requested to bring their stories in.

Both types of information were requested and anyone who has a story to tell about Carrillo, laudable or otherwise, has been asked to bring the story in.

The people to whom this request was directed have been asked to present themselves at the hearing before the board of supervisors next Thursday and Friday at 9 a. m., where testimony, evidence and information will be heard.

Yesterday The Register announced that it had placed in the hands of the district attorney's office the names and addresses of the people who signed the 11 affidavits which The Register presented to the board with the request that Carrillo be investigated. The names of the men who collected the affidavits also were given to the district attorney.

Yesterday and today subpoenas were being served on the signers of the affidavits and the men who collected them, ordering them to appear at the hearing to give their testimony before that body.

EDISON TO CUT ITS RATES IN S. A. ON NOV. 1
Practically Every City in Southland to Benefit By Small Slash

ELECTRIC energy for domestic consumption in Santa Ana will cost 3 of a cent less per kilowatt hour after November 1 than it is costing now as result of approval yesterday by the state railroad commission of a voluntary reduction in rates made by the Southern California Edison company.

It is estimated that throughout the system the savings to consumers will approximate $1,400,000.

In adjusting the schedules, the company established rates on the basis of expense per consumer, with the result that rates are different in districts.

The rate for Santa Ana after November 1 will be 5.3 cents per kilowatt hour as compared with the present schedule of 5.6 cents. The same rate applies in the districts of Covina, Fullerton, Huntington Beach, Ojai, Ontario, Pomona, Redlands, San Bernardino, Santa Barbara, Santa Paula, Ventura, Whittier and Oxnard.

W. L. Deimling, manager for the company here, was not in the city today, and members of the local office force would not even hazard a guess as to the amount of saving that would accrue to Orange county consumers by reason of the reduction.

DETROIT, Sept. 20.—(UP)—A mysterious fire which crackled through the silken hangings of one of Detroit's most exclusive night clubs took at least 16 lives today and injured 55 persons.

The luxurious interior of the Study club, on Vernon highway in the center of the downtown district, was hollowed out by the flames as 100 panic-stricken patrons dived for exits, leaping from windows and risking broken bones to escape.

An early check-up at the morgue, where 15 bodies were taken, revealed the following dead had been identified:

Wallace Krueger, of Grand Rapids, an entertainer in the club.

Bertha Kelly, 25, attendant in the women's cloakroom.

Morrison Manning, orchestra leader.

E. D. Stedford, waiter.

J. G. Kaufman.

Waverly Green.

H. B. Smith.

Lawrence Luther.

Herbert A. Brown.

The bodies of five men and two women still were unidentified.

Firemen said the blaze might have started in the basement where rubbish accumulated after the club was redecorated. Police, however, investigated a report that a bomb explosion caused the fire.

Dead In Pile

Firemen who smashed their way into the second-floor cloakroom found 25 persons, the living piled with the dead.

The exterior of the building was only slightly damaged. All the heat and smoke were concentrated in the interior. Damage was estimated at $35,000. As the flames fumed and sputtered up the silken hangings, deadly gases were thrown off. Rescuers found several of the dead had been asphyxiated.

Passersby volunteered to aid in the rescue work. Among them was John Duvall Dodge, a member of the automobile manufacturer's family who groped his way through the smoke and was slightly burned. Jack Carney, his companion, also was hurt slightly after carrying injured and dead from the building.

Receiving hospital, where most of the injured were taken, was crowded, and physicians there said at least five might die from burns.

When the first smoke spiraled up the stairway, the patrons of the club dashed for the doors. The 25 trapped in the cloakroom apparently tried to retrieve costly garments before escaping, but were unable to make their way out of the second-floor room.

In the main club room, scores stormed the windows. Two men and a woman, who jumped from a window, were taken to the hospital with broken legs. Others followed, most of them escaping serious injury.

Once firemen had beaten down the flames to the main room, they soon had the blaze under control. As victims, many with their clothing burned off, continued to struggle out of the building, a search was started for bodies and pos-

AIR EXPRESS SEEKS NEW RADIO STATION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(UP)—Permission to erect a new short wave radio station at Fort Dodge, Kans., and to change the location of four existing stations, was asked of the federal radio commission today by the Western Air Express, Inc. Request also was made for a license for its station at Catalina Island, Calif.

The changes in location which the commission was asked to approve were from Lordsburg, N. M. to Denver, Colo.; from Del Rio, Tex., to Seligman, Ariz.; from Los Angeles to Alhambra, Calif., and from 42 East Eighth street, south Salt Lake city to the city's airport.

Little Hope Held For Bandit Shot By L. A. Officers

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20.—(UP)—Physicians said today that little hope was held for the recovery of Jack Carlin, 19, shot down by police yesterday shortly after he held up the Federal Building and Loan company offices and escaped with $500.

Carlin said he recently arrived in Los Angeles from San Francisco, where he worked as a waiter. He said he was broke and sleeping in a park when another transient gave him a gun and suggested he commit the robbery. The youth has a mother in Holyoke, Miss., he said.

BUFFALO ENDURANCE PLANE FORCED DOWN

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 20.—(UP)—The endurance plane "Buffalo Evening News" landed last night after 197 1/2 hours in the air with the efforts of three men virtually wasted.

Dale Dryer, a mechanic, risked his life yesterday by crawling up a rope ladder from another plane, to repair a stabilizer wire. He dropped to the ground in a parachute.

The plane later was forced down by a hole in the fuselage.

BRITISH ADMIRAL CALLED BY DEATH

DANBURY, Hampshire, England, Sept. 20.—(UP)—The Hon. Sir Hedworth Meux, admiral of the British fleet, died here today. He was 77.

Sir Hedworth was made commander-in-chief of the China station in 1903, when he also was made a grand officer in the Legion of Honor. He served at Portsmouth from 1912 to 1916 and was put on the retired list in 1921. He assumed the name of Meux in 1911.

The state expected to present evidence designed to prove that the two former officers "framed" Bustamante and Garcia and shot them to death as robbers when they entered a drug store.

SEEK MONEY FOR FLIGHT TO TOKIO

TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 20.—(UP)—Means of financing the construction of a third plane for Harold Bromley's proposed nonstop flight from Tacoma to Tokyo were being worked out today by the flight committee of the chamber of commerce.

It was decided at a meeting yesterday to build a third plane for Bromley to attempt the flight. The first one was wrecked at the new municipal field two months ago when he attempted to take off for Tokyo and the second was damaged when Lieut. Herbert Fahy crashed in a test flight at Burbank, California, Wednesday.

SECURED LOAN UNDER BOGUS TITLE CHARGE

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20.—(UP)—Taft Thew Houghton, 23, was held here today on a federal warrant charging him with obtaining $20 by fraud through representation that he was the "third assistant solicitor" to the United States attorney general.

The youth, it was said, secured a "loan" in a Los Angeles club by use of the pretentious title.

Houghton, according to officers, has had a varied career. He is declared to have represented himself as "Baron Von Krupp" and as the son of former Ambassador Houghton.

Claims were made that Houghton, by means of his impersonations, had been entertained by screen celebrities and such notables as Henry Ford, Thomas Edison and Harvey Firestone.

GAS COMMITTEE IS FORMED BY OIL MEN

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20.—(UP)—A managing committee of seven to represent all oil operators in the four big fields of Southern California has been formed to proceed in the matter of preventing the waste of natural gas, according to the announcement today of Edwin Higgins, manager director of the California Oil and Gas association.

The committee members will approach operators in the Signal Hill, Ventura avenue, Seal Beach and Santa Fe Springs fields and propose that all outlets for gas be pooled and that each operator then be allowed to dispose of his portion of the whole.

Warren H. Prescott, Los Angeles probation officer, declined to discuss details of the arrest. Detective Sergeant Clarence Hurlitt, who made the arrest, said it was at the request of Los Angeles police.

Miss Follett had registered at a small uptown hotel as "K. Andrews." When Hurlitt appeared to arrest her she pleaded for permission to write two letters but turned to the window and tried to jump.

MRS. SUNDAY GIVEN L. A. DIVORCE DECREE

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20.—(UP)—The manner in which William Ashley Sunday Jr., son of the noted evangelist, treated his wife, Julia Mae, was held to be cruel by Superior Judge John Fleming and her interlocutory decree of divorce was on file here today.

Mrs. Sunday claimed that her husband remained away from home for long periods and that he once told her he was interested in another woman. Her testimony was corroborated by Adela Rogers St. Johns, nationally known magazine writer.

The Sundays were married in Yuma, Ariz., in April, 1928. They separated in June, 1929.

PITTSBURGH METER COMPANY OFFICIALS VISIT IN SANTA ANA

A. D. MacLean, chief engineer of the Pittsburgh Equitable Meter company, of Pittsburgh, was here today in company with Arthur Crook, Los Angeles representative of the company.

The representatives of the manufacturing company, which is a subsidiary of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company, made only a brief stop in the city, calling for a few minutes at the Santa Ana chamber of commerce.

While here the gentlemen looked over the site of the Glass company at Bristol and Fairview. They did not disclose the purpose of their visit to this city, but it is believed they were here in connection with investigation of sites suitable for installation of a factory by the meter company.

The visit of the engineer here more or less confirms exclusive stories in the Register in July announcing that the possibility of the meter company establishing a plant here adjoining the factory the Glass company will erect.

The company is now in successful operation at Pittsburgh and is a strong financial concern.

Jurors Continue Deliberations In Bank Holdup Case

NEW BRAUNFELS, Tex., Sept. 20.—(UP)—With 27 hours of argument behind them, the 12 farmers deliberating the bank robbery charge against Mrs. Rebecca Bradley Rogers today were ordered by Judge John Watson to continue efforts to reach an agreement.

Judge Watson said he would keep the jurors until tonight and possibly longer unless they reached a verdict. It was rumored they stood 9 to 3 for acquittal.

District Attorney Fred Brundell, who asked a prison sentence for the former Texas university co-ed, had left New Braunfels with his prosecution assistants, Otis Rogers, who married the girl secretly when both were students and came to her defense three years after she held up a bank at Buda, Tex., remained near the jury room until the jury had been ordered to bed.

Seek Entrance Of 500 Mexicans For Yuma Harvest

YUMA, Ariz., Sept. 20.—(UP)—The Yuma Chamber of Commerce will petition the federal immigration authorities to allow 500 Mexicans to enter this country to help in harvesting Yuma's 35,000 bale cotton crop, it was announced today.

The crop is now ready for picking and unless pickers are available the crop may go to ruin, it was said.

UNITED STATES AND FRANCE IN MOVIES ACCORD

withdraw from the French field after French producers attempted to establish a three to one ratio to protect their industry. Under the three to one ratio, the Americans would have been compelled to purchase one French film for every three American films imported by France. The present contingent system, which it was proposed to replace by the three to one ratio, is on a seven to one ratio, providing that American producers must purchase a license for one French film to release seven American films in Europe.

The agreement was signed in the office of Francois Ponce, minister of Beaux Arts by Harold Smith, representative of Will Hays, director of the American motion picture industry, and Charles Delac, of the Chamber syndicate, the organization of the French producers.

The cinema control commission in an official communique said the entire situation had been altered as a result of the advent of "sound" and "talking" pictures which necessitated abolishment of the present quota system. The statement also explained that the accord provides that the present system continue for a maximum of two years although it will remain in effect only one year if some new method of control is approved before May 1, 1930.

The significance of the accord was that it offered the French, forced to the wall by the American producers' embargo, a diplomatic exit from a situation that was becoming increasingly embarrassing, some of the leading Parisian theaters have been running revivals of second-run films. Because the French output was insufficient to meet the demands of exhibitors and in many instances inferior in quality to the imported American films, scores of owners of provincial theaters had come to Paris to intercede with the ministry of Beaux Arts and protest against forced closing of their theaters.

Patrolman Edward Cannane discovered the fire and turned in the alarm, racing back immediately to scale a wall to the second story and help five persons to safety.

Another patrolman, James McGuire, who also turned in an alarm described the early stages of the blaze.

"I saw flames coming from the windows," he said. "At first, I thought it was only a small blaze and dashed to the nearest box to sound the alarm. In the next two minutes, however, the place had been converted into a blazing inferno. Women were screaming. Crowds were collecting. Soon they were carrying the dead and dying out."

Beatrice Heath, a 23-year-old check room girl, told police she suddenly saw the wax-covered draperies flare into flames. She dived for a rear exit, but already the fire was cutting across the interior of the club, she said.

Makes Escape

William Fels, 45, a waiter, also told police he saw the flames sweeping toward the dining room. He said he dashed to a window, swung himself out to a telephone pole and escaped.

Sally Sweet, singer, who with her mother, Sarah, was filling an engagement at the club prior to returning to her Chicago home, dashed into a blazing room and rescued Mildred Pickard, pretty cloakroom girl.

M. H. Baker, one of the taxicab drivers who carried several injured persons to hospitals, said a mad panic seized the patrons as they fought to escape.

Baker said he and several other drivers had gathered in front of the cabaret to await the home-going crowds.

"Suddenly we heard screams and when I looked at the building I saw flames spreading everywhere," he said.

After driving their cabs away from the building, Baker said he and other drivers started for the front door.

"Men were fighting to get out—one man, blinded by the smoke, locked the door and dropped the key on the floor. We broke down the door and pulled them out and drove them to the hospital."

On their return to the cabaret, Baker said they went to the back of the building and by means of a telephone pole reached a window in the rear.

"One man got an axe, climbed to the window and smashed it," he said. "Men started fighting to escape, but none got out. I then saw a man on top of the roof with his clothes afire. We called to him to climb to the edge of the roof, but he dropped from sight."

Later, when the front door was broken down, Baker said, the air that rushed through must have helped spread the flames, for they grew brighter from then on.

The flames started in the crowded cabaret so quickly that only a few near the doors had a chance to escape, George W. Brown, president of the Brown & Morris Manufacturing company, said at receiving hospital.

"A man and woman entertainer had just finished a clog dance and another couple were the main attraction near the main entrance, Brown asserted. "Most of us rushed to the entertainers' room at the other end of the dance floor, but the fire soon worked its way there by burning down the inflammable draperies. More than 50 of us tried to crowd into the small entertainers' room, some of the men so intoxicated that they considered it just another part of the night's entertainment. It seems a miracle that more were not killed."

30 Drowned When Motorboat Sinks Off Mexico Coast

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 20.—(UP)—Thirty persons were drowned during a storm along the Pacific coast Wednesday night, when a motorboat was wrecked near Villarruta in the state of Jalisco, dispatches to the newspaper La Prensa said today.

The dispatches said many of the passengers aboard the motor boat were employees of the American-owned Montgomery Bana company and were returning from Vallarta, where they had been celebrating independence day.

sible survivors. On the small dance floor was found the body of a cigarette girl, her arms wrapped around her tray.

All available fire apparatus in the city was sent to the club, and the staff of receiving hospital immediately began to muster physicians and nurses from other institutions to aid.

Questioned

Martin Cohn, owner of the club, was questioned by Inspector Henry J. Garvin of the crime and bomb squad. Cohn told police he believed the fire had been caused by a bomb, because he left the building shortly before the blaze and there was no indication of a fire then.

Bobby Jackson, a club employee, who left with Cohn, also was questioned, but his statement was not divulged.

Last year there were reports here that there was friction between Cohn and Louis Riccardi, owner of Luigi's cabaret, over patronage, but the differences were said to have been adjusted. Cohn said he left his club to go to Luigi's which was to have been opened for the winter season.

Patrolman Edward Cannane discovered the fire and turned in the alarm, racing back immediately to scale a wall to the second story and help five persons to safety.

Another patrolman, James McGuire, who also turned in an alarm described the early stages of the blaze.

"One man got an axe, climbed to the window and smashed it," he said. "Men started fighting to escape, but none got out. I then saw a man on top of the roof with his clothes afire. We called to him to climb to the edge of the roof, but he dropped from sight."

Later, when the front door was broken down, Baker said, the air that rushed through must have helped spread the flames, for they grew brighter from then on.

The flames started in the crowded cabaret so quickly that only a few near the doors had a chance to escape, George W. Brown, president of the Brown & Morris Manufacturing company, said at receiving hospital.

"A man and woman entertainer had just finished a clog dance and another couple were the main attraction near the main entrance, Brown asserted. "Most of us rushed to the entertainers' room at the other end of the dance floor, but the fire soon worked its way there by burning down the inflammable draperies. More than 50 of us tried to crowd into the small entertainers' room, some of the men so intoxicated that they considered it just another part of the night's entertainment. It seems a miracle that more were not killed."

COMMITTEE TO BROADEN ITS PROBE

were present a Mr. Hunter, counsel for the New York Shipbuilding company; F. G. Palen, vice president of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company, and S. W. Wakeman, vice president of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding company.

"What was the agreement with Shearer?" Shortridge asked.

"The agreement was that he go to Geneva as an observer and report proceedings and the trend of events and provide information not in the newspapers which would be of interest to the shipbuilding industry," Bardo replied.

The witness explained his company was confronted at that time with the necessity of deciding whether it was to continue in the shipbuilding business or convert its factories into electrical equipment plants. The outcome of the conference, he said, naturally would affect their decision.

He then explained that he was interested in the "trend" of the conference rather than the "decision" of the conference.

"What instructions did you give Shearer?" Bardo was asked.

"He was instructed to be an observer and reporter—nothing more," he replied.

Bardo said he understood that the agreement with Shearer was to remain in effect only for the duration of the Geneva conference.

The committee ordered Bardo to turn over to it an account of all money of other shipbuilding companies for lobbying purposes that he had handled, and the records of his company for the last five years.

The shipbuilding executive turned over to the committee reports he had received from Shearer at Geneva.

Senator Robinson asked how many times Shearer was employed for lobbying. Bardo replied that Shearer was hired twice—first in December, 1926, in connection with merchant marine work and later for the Geneva conference.

Bardo denied that the shipbuilding companies had any idea of disrupting the Geneva conference. They merely wanted to know what the government would do, he said.

"And you thought Shearer could find out?" Robinson asked.

"Yes," Bardo said he received several reports from Shearer that he did not read because his secretary had described them as "bunk."

He added press reports were indicating clearly the trend of the conference and that Shearer's reports were of very little use to his company.

HEIRESS' BODY DISCOVERED IN SUISUN HILLS

The other is that she was murdered.

A pair of brown overalls comprised the main items of the woman's clothing when found. This was not the usual garb of the "Empress" and was not the clothing she wore the day she left home, walked to the top of a nearby hill and surveyed her "vast domain."

Where she got the overalls and why she wore them are among many questions which remain to be solved.

Family Feud

In the background, among the snarled threads of mystery, is an old time family feud, a strange tangle of brotherly hatred and sisterly affection.

Matt and Ney, the brothers, were not friendly. They had not spoken to each other for years and even with the disappearance of their sister who loved these brother "subjects" of hers, could not agree.

"She is dead," Ney told Jack Thornton, sheriff of Solano county, immediately after her disappearance. "She ran away from that nurse Matt hired for her and died from exposure."

Just as insistent was Matt that "sister is alive. She loved the hills and walked too far from home and is lost. Let's continue the hunt, please."

The creek where Miss Wolfskill was found is only a short distance from the Wolfskill home. Her feet were bare, which was considered unusual, and one foot was gone but the water flowing through the creek, and the presence of wolves in that region, may have accounted for the mutilation.

The body was brought here last night and turned over to Gertrude Klotz, county coroner, who, after consulting physicians, will conduct an inquest and investigation into the case.

The brothers were notified in Los Angeles and will be summoned for the inquest, according to M. A. Harris, a private detective hired to investigate the circumstances of their sister's disappearance.

The Citizens' Trust and Savings bank of Los Angeles, in which Miss Wolfskill had a $800,000 trust fund, also is interesting itself in the investigation, it was reported here.

FATALLY HURT AS PASSENGER CAR HITS TRUCK

Mrs. Ida Jiles, 56, wife of William Jiles, Santa Ana, route No. 3, was fatally injured at 4:30 yesterday afternoon, when the automobile in which she was riding collided with a gravel truck at First street and the Buero road. She died in the Santa Ana Valley hospital at 7 o'clock this morning, without having regained consciousness, death being due to fractured skull and internal injuries.

Coroner Charles D. Brown announced this morning that he probably would hold an inquest over the body tomorrow morning.

Mrs. Jiles was riding in a car driven by Andrew Switzer, of Santa Ana Gardens, and occupied by Viola Switzer, six years old. The girl was slightly injured.

The car collided with a gravel truck driven by D. S. Wagoner, of Olive, and turned over. Mrs. Jiles was pinned underneath the car. According to a report of the accident, filed at the sheriff's office by Switzer, the truck stopped just as it entered the intersection, cutting off escape for the smaller car, which crashed into the truck.

Officers, who investigated, reported that the truck was knocked eight feet off the pavement by the impact.

The truck was traveling south on Buero road and the Switzer machine was being driven west on First street at the time of the accident.

ILLNESS IS FATAL TO MRS. THRASHER

Mrs. Virgie Thrasher, 56, passed away in her home, 1615 West Fifth street, at 6:30 last night.

Mrs. Thrasher was the wife of C. C. Thrasher, Register linotype operator, and had been a resident of Orange county for more than 10 years.

Funeral services will be held privately at 10 a. m. tomorrow, in Oakwood cemetery, near Chatsworth. Smith and Tutthill, of Santa Ana, will be in charge of the interment.

Mrs. Liela Baker, of Enid, Okla., a daughter, and the husband, are the only survivors.

GROVE MAN JAILED ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Dennis Weaver, Garden Grove man, was arrested near Garden Grove last night after what deputy sheriffs termed a "wild chase."

He is being held in the county jail on a drunk charge and the district attorney's office announced this morning that efforts would be made to revoke probation, granted him in 1922, when he was arrested on a larceny charge.

Four officers arrested Weaver, after chasing him through a 20-acre field, they reported. They were Deputy Sheriffs Boyd, Scudder, Elliott and Carter.

MISUNDERSTANDING LEADS WOMAN TO BELIEVE EFFORT MADE TO STEAL HER BABY

With the address of the Santa Ana Register written on a sheet of coarse paper, covered with what apparently were the first drawings of her little girl, Mrs. Ramon Rodriguez, of Anaheim, came to The Register office this morning in an effort to find the proper place to go to keep the little girl from being taken from her.

Mrs. Rodriguez had misunderstood. No one had any intention of taking her baby from her, but because she thought that the child was to be placed in the custody of her father she spent a sleepless night and a morning of grief before she was made to understand that the child could not be taken but that the father had the right to see her a part of the time unless the court ordered differently.

The little girl, Jennie, is the youngest of seven children and, according to Mrs. J. W. Price, of the Anaheim welfare department, there has been a misunderstanding about the child, between the mother and father since the two separated in August. No effort has been made to take Jennie from her mother, Mrs. Price stated.

Teacher Narrowly Escapes Drowning In Valley Flood

LAGUNA BEACH, Sept. 20.—Caught in a flood, buffeted by waters and rocks, his car filled with sand until it had to be taken to a garage to be overhauled, Robert Todd, husband of Mrs. George Todd, school teacher of this city, had something more than a thrill to remember the event by.

Mr. Todd, who is teaching school in Imperial valley, started for Laguna Beach. A cloudburst caught him and four others in a wash, and before they could get out they were in danger of drowning. Mr. Todd was on the verge of trying to escape from the car, when a whim of the waters thrust it toward the shore and it was towed out.

Court Notes

Proceedings were instituted yesterday by the Bank of Italy against George Floras, et al., for foreclosure of a mortgage on property in Salisbury's addition to Santa Ana. The mortgage is in the amount of $4000 and the complaint asks for $200 attorney's fees, in addition to the principal sum. G. F. Ludlow and Susan O. Ludlow are made parties to the proceedings as the record shows the note issued by Helen Floras, George Floras and F. Kalos was assumed by G. F. Ludlow.

A. F. Smith has sued Sidney Eggleton and Oscar Cochems for $449.06, said to be due on a note issued by Eggleton to Cochems on Dec. 13, 1922, in the amount of $1000, which note is now the property of Smith. The complaint, which was filed yesterday in superior court, also asks for interest from Aug. 27, 1925, court costs and such other relief as the court may deem reasonable.

Suit to compel payment of principal and interest on note for $400, which was issued Sept. 20, 1924, and which was due one year from that date, and on which no payments of interest or principal have been made, was filed yesterday by Lillian Yeager against Thibba L. Glenn. Interest to date of the filing of the suit amounts to $110.51, it was said. Court costs also are requested.

Value of the estate of Rose Clark has been fixed at $9977.07, according to an inventory filed with the court by John N. Anderson, appraiser. PRESIDENTS OF P.-T. A. MEET HERE THURSDAY

Preceding the presidents' council of the fourth district Parent-Teacher association, called for Thursday afternoon, September 26, in the district headquarters, 417 Cypress street, will be a covered dish dinner, over which Mrs. A. B. Marshall, of Laguna Beach, district and state chairman of art, will preside. The informal discussion to be featured at this mid-day affair will center in art and its allied subjects and the presidents will be expected to take prominent part.

Mrs. Neal Beisel, president of the fourth district P.-T. A., will conduct the afternoon council, beginning at 1:30.

In line with the autumn activities of the district association are those of various units of the city league, none showing a livelier interest in the coming year's work than Julia Lathrop junior high school association. In anticipation of the year's program, a meeting of class mothers has been called for 2 o'clock next Tuesday afternoon, in the school building, where a discussion of general duties will be held.

Among those who will make short talks explaining the plans and outlining various activities will be H. G. Nelson, principal of the school; Mrs. W. A. Proctor, president of the P.-T. A., and Mrs. Adelaide Lowe.

STRANGE COMPANIONS

LONDON, Sept. 20.—At a recent horse show in Olympia a prize horse was sold to a buyer from France and a chicken had to be included in the deal due to the close companionship between the two. Another such strange friendship exists between a hawk and a terrier. Each time the terrier goes hunting with its master the hawk accompanies them and if the terrier goes after an animal and misses the hawk swoops down and kills it for him.

OUTLINE PLANS FOR FIRE PREVENTION WEEK IN S. A.

At a meeting held this morning in the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce office by the Fire Prevention week committee, John Henderson, chairman, and John Luxembourg, fire chief, outlined a plan of activity for the week, which will be observed here from October 6 to 12, inclusive.

Henderson reported J. A. Cranston's approval of the plan to conduct essay contests in the city schools. These contests are to be limited to the fifth and sixth grades and the two junior high schools. The committee will send for booklets on "Safeguarding the Home Against Fire" from the National Fire Underwriters headquarters, and a booklet, together with a letter, will be sent to the principal of each of the schools.

Instructors in grades under the fifth will be requested to place significant emphasis on fire prevention during the week. This may be done, according to the committee discussion, either by lecture work, story telling, or the making of picture scrap books to portray the menace of fire.

Faculty committees, chosen by the principals, will select the best essays. The chosen essays will be submitted to a committee, to be appointed at a later date by the fire prevention workers. Cash prizes will be given the winners, according to present plans.

Chief Luxembourg suggested that business men co-operate in Fire Prevention week to the extent of making their window displays significant of the occasion.

EXTENSION OF ADULT CLASSES IS ANTICIPATED

Because such interest has been manifested in night school classes, Mrs. Golden Norwood today disclosed that the adult education department will open classes for further adult study.

It is planned to begin the series on October 1 and those in charge are particularly interested in knowing immediately who is desirous of night work and what courses they are interested in.

The entire high school plant is at the disposal of the adult education department," Mrs. Norwood said, "and there will be teachers procurable for any class of 15 or more persons who want to study the same subject matter. Fifteen persons are essential to the formation of a class."

Time of meeting will be adjusted to suit the convenience of each group and the work will be entirely separate and apart from university extension courses. Only a nominal enrollment fee will be required. It is the ambition of the department to throw the school facilities open to the entire public.

Crafts, typing, business English, Spanish, bookkeeping, mechanical drawing and other studies were enumerated by Mrs. Norwood as among the subjects in which citizens may obtain further information and instruction. "Who and What" is the slogan of the department in its attempt to organize classes here by October.

Anyone interested is asked to write Mrs. Norwood, at 115 Church street, or phone 4250.

BLIND CROSS ROAD WITH HAND UPHOLD

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Sept. 20.—(UP)—At the suggestion of the Auckland Automobile association, inmates of the New Zealand Jubilee Institute for the blind henceforth will hold one hand upright over the head when attempting to cross streets.

In an effort to prevent accidents due to blind persons attempting to cross streets alone and also to obviate the necessity for unaccompanied blind persons having to wait too long at crossings, the association decided that only some kind of signal which would be immediately recognized by motorists would solve the problem. As a result they sought and obtained for their scheme the approval of the Jubilee Institute whose officials have just issued the necessary instructions to the blind.

INDIAN GETS MAD OVER WRONG FOOD

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 20.—(UP)—When an Indian wants ham and eggs, don't bring him noodles, even though he asks for noodles. A Chinese waiter in a cafe here made that mistake and brought Joe Cloud Boy, whose wild ancestors are reputed to have ridden horses all over this part of the country, a platter of the Oriental and elongated vegetable. The red man produced a shiny knife, put on his nastiest expression and menaced the yellow man. Officer Earl Brown entered the restaurant before violence was committed and escorted Joe Cloud Boy to the city jail where he was booked on a charge of disorderly conduct.

SOUGHT WIFE AS SECURITY ON HIS LOAN

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 20.—(UP)—Seraphim Carvalho came over from Portugal, but in time found out that fortunes are not made in this country with proverbial rapidity, and grew to miss his worthy consort, Albertina, whom he had left back in the old country.

He had not found the legendary tree where the "patacas" grow in bunches, according to what they told him back in the home village. The "pataca" is an old Portuguese coin of low value. For this reason, Carvalho had not achieved his anticipated phenomenal success. He appealed to friend Manoel Pinheiro for a loan to pay his wife's passage across from Europe. "Willingly," said Senor Pinheiro, counting over the necessary money. A few days ago the ship from Portugal docked, and Seraphim was dutifully at the pier, awaiting his spouse. So was Manoel Pinheiro.

"Well," said Pinheiro to Seraphim, as Madame Carvalho descended the gangplank. "I'm very sorry, but I'll have to take charge of your wife as security for that cash I lent you. There's no hurry about paying."

"What?"

"You heard me. Come along, Albertina."

The police were forced to interfere and the matter was settled at the police court in Carvalho's favor. This disappointed creditor retired grumbling.

MANGUM, Okla., Sept. 20.—(UP)—Luther Gilliam, Mangum, not only is the youngest grandfather in Oklahoma, but he also has the distinction of being the uncle of his grandsons.

Gilliam's daughter, Mrs. Olin Smith, is the wife of the twin brother of Gilliam's second wife. Smith's two sons are grandsons of their father's brother-in-law, Mrs. Gilliam. Mrs. Smith's step-mother is the aunt of Mrs. Smith's two sons. The twin brother of Mrs. Gilliam is her step-son, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Gilliam's step-daughter, is also her sister-in-law. Gilliam, now 39, was a grandfather at 35. Being double related to the Smiths, the small Smith boys have plenty of affection bestowed on them—the love of a grandfather, grandmother, aunt and uncle concentrated in two persons.

PURPLE VETCH BELL BEANS

Another car of Bell Beans expected in this week. They make an excellent cover crop in oranges, as they are erect and quick growing—deep rooting with lots of nitrogen nodules.

A good cover crop is by far your cheapest form of organic matter. A good cover crop in the Fall and Winter, followed with an application of Ammonium Sulphate in the Spring, will supply your needed Nitrogen and organics for ten cents on the dollar as spent for bean straw.

SUPER-SERVICE RIVERSIDE

No finer tire ever was built!

30,000 miles The Longest and Strongest
Definite Guarantee in the Industry!

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO. offers you—on this Super Service RIVERSIDE—the longest and strongest guarantee in the tire industry! . . . We guarantee that when you buy a Super-Service RIVERSIDE, you will receive a minimum of 30,000 miles of service. And that guarantee stands, without "ifs," "buts," or other conditions! Moreover, to substantiate this guarantee, our own test fleet has repeatedly driven these tires 40,000 . . . 50,000 . . . and 60,000 miles. We do not believe that 25 per cent of its users will ever wear this tire out.

Naturally, only one reason enables us to give you this superlative tire, backed by this superlative guarantee. . . . It is because the Super-Service RIVERSIDE is built of the finest materials, by famous makers, and according to the most modern methods known!

Its tread, for example, is 50 to 70 per cent thicker . . . and both cross-section and diameter are much larger . . . than those of ordinary tires. We use only the costliest long-staple Egyptian cord that money can buy—with extra-heavy layers of rubber between each ply . . . And this superlative care in construction means, as a result, that the Super-Service RIVERSIDE is a safe tire at all speeds. Its ribbed sidewalls are extremely resistant to curb damage—there is unusual freedom from skidding and punctures—and along with extra road-traction you enjoy much easier riding than any ordinary tire can possibly provide!

Yet—if you will compare this guaranteed quality, for a moment, with Ward's prices . . . then with the prices of any other make of tire—merely claiming superlative performance . . . you will see why thousands appreciate its excellence still more because of its economy. Do not, however, expect to find any other organization of Montgomery Ward & Co.'s responsibility offering you an unconditional 30,000-mile guarantee at any price! In this respect, Super-Service RIVERSIDE stands absolutely alone . . .

THIS STORE displays a complete line of tires. The 30,000-mile Super-Service RIVERSIDE; the 16,000-mile First-Quality RIVERSIDE; and the 10,000-mile WARDWEAR. Sizes to fit any car . . . at prices saving you from $2 to $15 per tire. Drop in and see how good tires can be—without costing you a penny extra for names, claims or other substitutes for guaranteed quality.

Don't pay more for any other tire unless more miles are guaranteed!

'DARK HORSES' TO BE FEARED IN FINAL DAYS

Beware of a 'dark horse' in the Majestic Radio Popularity contest.

This warning is sounded today for the benefit of all the contestants and to prevent any one of the entrants from stealing a march on the others. Dark horses have a way of galloping up to the finish in a last minute spurt and walking away with the prize money.

The interest and energy shown by the contestants so far doesn't give much indication that there are any dark horses. However, it is the hope of the committee that the race will continue to be spirited until the very last minute of the contest.

Hazel Miller LePage is leading the race again today with a total of 301,410 votes.

The standings today were:

Hazel Miller LePage	301,410
Martha Manning	227,275
Margaret Young	201,680
Helen Woodfill	181,555

Mary and Bob On True Story Hour Over KHJ Tonight

Mary and Bob, the famous traveling sweethearts of the True Story Hour, invade the Grand Canyon in Colorado tonight. Hopi Indian house echoes with the wild ceremonial dances and songs of the American redskin. Mary and Bob invite their immense air audience to enjoy with them the thrilling entertainment over KHJ at 5 p. m., coast time.

As the brilliant reds of the canyon deepen through twilight purples to magical blues, they will hear the stirring revelations of a woman who lived only for the thrill of her power over men.

The flattery of a rogue meant more to her than a true man's love. But in her mad search for adoration, the moving finger of fate fashioned the turning point in her life. "Because She Was So Beautiful," the title of this epic drama chronicling the life of a thoughtless woman, is a feature story taken from the October issue of True Story magazine.

TUSTIN, Sept. 20.—A get-together party of the faculty of Tustin union high school was held last night in the teachers' dining room. After the five-course dinner was served, guests adjourned to the patio, where the evening was spent in visiting. Entertainment was furnished by Masters Dicky Korff and Buddy Means.

Thousands of votes poured in during the last 24 hours and with the contest a little past the half way mark it is apparent that a record number of votes will be polled. From the huge number of votes available each day, both from the coupons appearing in The Register and the 50 votes which go with each ticket of admission to a Fox-West Coast theater here, it is apparent that very few of the coupons are being overlooked.

No single opportunity of securing votes should be passed up. A margin of only 50 votes may be sufficient to determine the winner. The radio will go to the girl who has the highest number of votes on the closing date of the contest, regardless of whether the margin is one vote or 100,000.

'AUTUMN SKIES' TO BE HYDE'S SUBJECT

Anticipating the approach of the autumnal equinox, Henry M. Hyde will talk about "Autumn Skies" in his educational lecture during the RCA hour, broadcast through stations of the NBC system from 8 to 9 o'clock tonight.

Soloists for the hour will be Margaret O'Dea, contralto, and Harold Spaulding, tenor. The RCA Orchestra will be conducted by Max Dolin in a program of classics of the lighter type. Outstanding selections will include Von Suppe's "Pique Dame" Overture and Rubinstein's "Pechora" Napolitan et Napolitaine, both orchestral features; the lovely "O Mio Fanciullo" from Donizetti's "La Favorita," a contralto solo, and the famed aria, "Cielo e Mar" from Ponchielli's "La Gioconda," a tenor number.

Stations KHQ, Spokane; KOMO, Seattle; KGW, Portland; KGO, Oakland; KPO, San Francisco, and KFI, Los Angeles, will release the RCA hour.

To us in The last few days That they were Almost sure all Their votes had Not been counted

On certain days And to these Contestants we wish To desire to Explain the Unavoidable delay Which occasionally Brings an Up-to-date listing of The votes a Day late—

There are seven Polling places in the City, including the Stores of the five Majestic dealers And the two Fox-West Coast Theaters, where votes Must be picked up Each day, and, with The contest Becoming more Spirited each day, Every box has Been stacked almost Full of coupons— This daily deluge Necessitated Appointing An assistant for the Official vote

Tabulator, who has Been burning the Midnight oil quite Regularly of Late, but even under This arrangement He has been Unable, on especially Heavy days, to keep Pace with the Voters—

Thus, on some Days—But they are Few and far Between—the count Is not right up To date— The next day's count However, always Shows the correct Listing, so, if you Are of the belief That your score Should be greater for The day than that Listed, wait For the next day's Count—it will Be correct—

With a little extra effort, the last place entrant may easily forge to the front and come through the winner. Only a few days left! Redouble your efforts and win the marvelous 1930...

Majestic Radio GRAND PRIZE to the Most Popular Woman or Girl in this Community

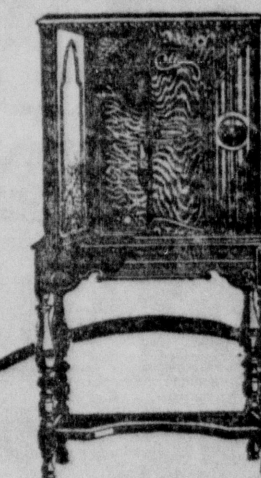

The greatest opportunity to gain votes is sales. Find out which among your neighborhood friends is planning to buy a new radio. You will actually be doing them a great service by sending them to a Majestic dealer. You do not have to "sell them" on a Majestic. They have already heard Majestic in the homes of friends. Urge them to buy before the contest expires and cast their votes for you. A few sales now will double your score. And don't forget, thousands of votes are distributed daily by Fox-West Coast Theatres, in newspaper coupons and advertisements. Gather them all in from every source!

You never heard a more "true to life" tone than that of Majestic. As you sit for a demonstration your ears will not hear a trace of A-C hum. Majestic engineers have solved the problem of eliminating hum from the speaker before you cut in on a station. It is the elimination of this hum which makes Majestic tone so perfect...just the pure notes as they are played. Visit the local Majestic dealer. Let him prove that a Majestic is the best investment in radio. Buy your set. Then cast the 10,000 votes you will receive for your favorite candidate in the Majestic Radio Popularity Contest.

The undersigned Majestic Radio Dealers are sponsoring this contest and guarantee fair and impartial treatment for all contestants. Call on your nearest Majestic dealer today and register for a 500 vote certificate that can be cast for the candidate of your choice.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

HELEN PAGE feels unhappy when her classmates accuse her of being in love with her handsome guardian, LEONARD BRENT. But she represents all that she knows of home and family and she adores him blindly.

Brent changes all his plans for Helen's future after a chance meeting with a dying beggar, CHARLES OWENS NELLIN, who tells a strange story which Brent is able to corroborate to some extent by a visit to Yonkers.

On graduating, Helen reminds her guardian of his promise to reveal her parentage and is amazed when he informs her that she is heiress of a millionaire, CYRIL K. CUNNINGHAM, and that he promised her parents to take her to her grandfather when she was 18. They go to Yonkers and Brent introduces her to Cunningham as his granddaughter. He offers as proof the locket containing a picture of EVANGELINE CUNNINGHAM which he had taken from the dying Nellin.

Helen remains at Bramblewood while the lawyer investigates the story. Eager to win her favor, Cunningham presents her with a beautiful car which she drives everywhere. One day she accidentally strikes a young girl, EVA ENNIS, who has to be treated at the hospital. Although unstrung, Helen goes to the girl's home and brings her mother and brother ROBERT to see her. Bob speaks bitterly of idle rich girls who wreck lives by careless driving.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVII

"Will you permit me to drive home with you, Miss Brent?" Bob asked. His tone was cold enough to bring a sharp refusal to Helen's lips, but his next words checked its utterance.

"I want to tell you about Eva," he said.

Helen hesitated, and Mrs. Ennis further delayed her reply by saying good night. She must, she explained, see to her supper. Helen watched her hurry up to the front door and disappear within the house before she turned to Bob, who had stood quietly waiting for her answer.

"Is there anything you think I should know about your sister?" she asked.

"Yes," Helen moved over. "Will you drive?"

"Bramblewood," Helen directed. "Do you know where it is?"

"I've lived in Yonkers all my life," Bob told her, smiling at her question.

"I'm staying there," Helen said. Bob wondered in what capacity. Surely, he thought, not as a guest of old Cyril Cunningham's. But he said nothing of his conjectures and presently Helen asked him about Eva.

Bob's answer was indirect. "You said you were through with reckless driving," he remarked. "Did you mean that?"

Helen was astonished. "Of course I did," she answered.

"I would like to believe it," Bob said, "because—well, if you had injured Eva in any way that might have ruined her career it would have been a crime. She has a great talent—two hopes she will be famous some day."

"I'd never have forgiven myself if she'd been permanently injured," Helen told him.

"I know it," he answered with a degree of sincerity that was puzzling to Helen.

"I thought of that," he went on hurriedly; "what a devil of a cross you'd always bear. And so I wanted to make you see that other people—people you probably know but little about—have hopes and dreams that mean as much to them as your pleasures do to you. Suppose you had learned too late that you had crashed someone the world is in need of! And suppose you had smashed yourself up?"

Helen laughed with a touch of bitterness. "I'm afraid," she said, "that my importance in the world is of small matter. But I'm glad to know about your sister. I'd feel as bad over hurting anyone, but in the case of a girl with a rare talent I would have a greater responsibility. I'm glad you told me."

She wished that he had told her more—why he suddenly believed that she owned a heart, for one thing.

Bob, too, was thinking of the quick change in his opinion of her that had come over him in a moment. He tried to tell himself that it was something that had been in her expression as she said good night to his mother. "A yearning that no hard-boiled girl could feel," he put it.

For the rest of the way to Bramblewood they talked of Eva and her future. A thought that she could help the girl's ambition came to Helen but she did not speak of it to the brother.

"Won't you come in and meet Mr. Cunningham?" Helen invited when Bob drove up under the portecochere.

"I'd like to very much," he agreed readily. "I've seen him many times at a distance."

"He's quite nice," Helen said, thinking of her grandfather's reputation and wondering if this young man had heard of it.

She was greatly relieved when Mr. Cunningham greeted him with more than ordinary cordiality. Apparently she thought, there was to be no repetition of the treatment that had been accorded to her mother.

After the introduction and a few words about the accident, Mr. Cunningham asked Helen if she had dined. She looked at Bob and both smiled. It seemed they had quite forgotten dinner.

"You will stay," she appealed to him. He nodded in assent before realizing that he had done so. He smiled then over the idea of following up that nod with a regret.

"Will you go down and see about it, my dear?" Mr. Cunningham requested of Helen. "I'd like to talk with Mr. Ennis."

Helen left rather gaily. At least she wasn't going to be faced with a dull evening on this occasion.

She found the butler in the dining room, arranging her place. "There will be two, Ashe," she said, with a pleasant lit. "And please give us something nice."

She turned and looked at the table. It was coldly formal in its long expanse of polished mahogany. With her head tipped to one side, like a nodding, yellow rose, she mused on the possibilities of a cozier setting. Suddenly she wheeled back to the butler.

"It's warm," she said. "Can't you place a table on the western veranda?"

"Under the climbing roses, Miss?" "Yes. And a shaded light if candles won't burn out there. And, Ashe." She paused and there was a hint of laughter in the corner of her softly curving lips as she said, "not too much service."

"Yes, Miss."

She hurried then to her room to dress. Some instinct that she did not stop to analyze prompted her to choose something unusually becoming.

She took out several dresses and considered each with regard to the requirements of a porch dinner.

Silver cloth—that would be lovely. But it was much too formal. Thoughtfulness of her guest would not permit her to overdress and make him uncomfortable by contrast.

What should she wear? At last she selected a simple little dinner gown of white chiffon with a spangled cocktail jacket.

When she entered her grandfather's room her eyes were lit with a new radiance. The delight of being lovely and perfectly groomed, of glowing with health and standing face to face with a new friend, ran joyously through her youthful person.

"Charming, my dear," Mr. Cunningham remarked, and Helen was moved to go over and kiss him. Caresses seemed to fit her mood.

"Has Mr. Ennis told you how he has reformed me?" she asked. Bob looked uncomfortable, remembering what he had said to her at the hospital. Had he actually told this beautiful girl that she was a menace?

Helen laughed. Perhaps she saw that he was impressed with her appearance. It was quite possible that she did, for she was perfectly normal.

She did not wait for her grandfather to answer. "Come along," she said to Bob. "Dinner is ready."

"Good night, Mr. Ennis," Mr. Cunningham said. "Sorry I cannot join you at dinner, but I trust you will visit us again."

"Thank you, sir," Bob answered courteously, and left the possibilities of the future to the future. He had small hope that a girl like Helen would care to encourage his visits.

What she was in this household he had not yet discovered, but it was plain that Mr. Cunningham was very fond of her. At any rate she was someone above the reach of a struggling law student.

That his thoughts of her had gone so far as to take into account the apparent difference in their stations would have been significant to Bob had he thought of it.

But he was absorbed with the moment itself. Helen's bright, richly colored hair and meltingly soft brown eyes were working their magic with him.

He scarcely knew what food was set before him, scarcely was aware of the unobtrusive butler's presence. The setting, delightfully romantic, lent an atmosphere of unreality to the occasion.

Could it be possible, Bob thought, that it was he who sat opposite this exquisite girl who talked in a musically modulated voice that fell upon his ears as softly as the tinkling of a bell or the murmur of a meadow brook?

And at the end of dinner, when the demitasse stood half empty and Bob's cigar glowed beneath the thread of smoke that curled upward from it, Helen suggested a paddle on the lake.

They walked down to the boat-house through a garden of roses. The air was heavy-scented with fragrance. In the opening beside the tiny pool Helen halted and lifted her face to the stars. She was conscious of an indefinable sweet pain at her heart. So much beauty, she thought, carried a hurt. Was it because it was fleeting? But it wasn't. Gardens, the stars, moonlight, would endure forever.

"It is we who go on, we who leave it," she said to herself, while Bob stood watching her in silence, spellbound by her loveliness.

At that moment she understood that life is not simple for those who feel. Already in her heart was stirring an indecision, a realization of fate, that brought a pang.

Impulsively, without thought, she reached out for Bob's hand.

Acids In Stomach Cause Indigestion Create Sourness, Gas and Pain. How to Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any drug-gist some Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful of powder or four tablets in water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purpose. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.—Adv.

When BABIES are upset

Baby ills and ailments seem twice as serious at night. A sudden cry may mean colic. Or a sudden attack of diarrhea—a condition it is always important to check quickly. How would you meet this emergency—tonight? Have you a bottle of Castoria ready? There is nothing that can take the place of this harmless but effective remedy for children: nothing that acts quite the same or has quite the same comforting effect on them.

For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old, reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an everyday aid. Its gentle influence will ease and soothe any infant who cannot sleep. Its mild regulation will help an older child whose tongue is coated because of sluggish bowels. All druggists have Castoria; the genuine bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper.

THE FIRST AUTHORIZED STORY OF THE LIFE OF THE COMMANDER OF THE ZEPPELINS

Synopsis of Preceding Chapters
Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of Zeppelins, educated as a scientist and philosopher, established his home on Friedrichshafen, on Lake Constance, expecting to lead the life of a student and write a book on economics. Count Ferdinand Zeppelin, German army officer, who as a volunteer had flown free and captive balloons with the Union army during the American Civil war, also lived on Lake Constance. In spite of the general belief that his ideas were impracticable, Zeppelin was devoting his time, energy and money in an effort to perfect a rigid balloon, driven by motors. There was little in common between the student from the north and the army officer who was also a dreamer. But their meeting made history.

CHAPTER III

Two men meeting in a garden in quiet Friedrichshafen on a spring day in 1906. One a student and scholar, the other a retired army officer with a dream of conquering the air. One unknown beyond his local community or through occasional profound articles published in the Frankfurter Zeitung, under the signature of "Dr. H." The other already known about the world as a man with a queer idea of sailing through the air in a rigid balloon, propelled by motors, but whose progress had been marked largely by wrecks. And the life of the unknown was completely changed by the meeting.

There are many legends about the conversion of Dr. Eckener, leading critic of the Zeppelins—the dramatic event which changed him over from a Saul, scourge of the Church, to a St. Paul, the great apostle.

When Hugo Eckener went to Friedrichshafen to live it was the last thing in his mind that he would ever become associated with Count Zeppelin in building what he himself had termed the "air castles of an air count."

Quiet Little Village

Friedrichshafen was not yet famous as cradle of the Zeppelins. It was a quiet little village fronting on the lake with the Austrian and Swiss Alps opposite it.

Hugo Eckener, born as far north as he could be born on German soil, had, in selecting his home, gone as far south as one could go and still live in Germany.

The warm climate of South Germany was one reason for his de-

IN EARLY DAYS OF ZEPS

The upper picture shows Count Zeppelin in the center, with Dr. Eckener at the left and Captain Strasser, German chief of naval air service, on the occasion of the count's last visit to the airship harbor at Nordholz. cision. The lake itself was the other. Rich as it was in historic memories, scene of many wars running back to tribal days and down through Gustavus Adolphus, since the Rhine, the strategic river of Central Europe, ran entirely through the lake, the Bodensee, as it was locally called, would also permit the scholar to go sailing again.

The Eckeners made some little stir in Friedrichshafen when they arrived there, the man tall, blond, distinguished, intellectual, contrasting with the shorter, darker, southerners. The curious northern clothes of the children seeming to the village folk strange in contrast to the gayer colors of Bavaria and Württemberg.

Of these things Hugo Eckener was largely unconscious. Travel, mountain climbing, the lake, his studies, his garden, his writing, these things filled a busy and colorful life. The second chapter of his book was about finished.

That there was under way, almost at his doorstep, the most daring concept in the entire field of engineering, a project requiring faith and fortitude beyond any in the world, largely escaped his notice.

For Count Zeppelin had been born nearby at the city of Constance, had selected Friedrichshafen as the scene of his experiments. It lay in a great dish-shaped basin surrounded by mountains.

Impossible Thing
And when the experiments of his neighbor were brought to Eckener's attention by one disaster and another disaster, he noticed it in his writing only to criticize it. The thing was impossible.

And yet Count Zeppelin, not knowing it, needed the special abilities which Hugo Eckener could bring to his project. Eckener was perhaps the one man in Europe who was best able to prove Count Zeppelin's conclusions to be sound.

For Eckener was a born navigator, a born seaman, extraordinarily weather wise.

And Zeppelin ships, once built, had to be flown, had to be flown in a new and uncharted medium. Zeppelin's third ship was destroyed in January, 1906. Eckener wrote an article about the disaster in the Frankfurter Zeitung. His comments are significant.

"The landing," he wrote, "though difficult, was on the whole successful, except that the rear portion struck a tree and was damaged not inconsiderably. But during the night a wind came up and, lifting the ship from the ground a couple of times, dashed it down again so vigorously as to smash up the ribs and make it impossible to fly it back to the hangar. It was decided to dismantle it, and that was quickly done. Exactly 24 hours after this great 30-ton ship had risen and flown so proudly and majestically over the lake, it had become a scattered heap of aluminum and fabric.

"A sad sight for all who knew what hopes and labors had gone into its construction.

"And in the midst of it stood the old Count himself, calmly giving orders for its destruction. Who can conceive how hard it was on this sleepless night for him to witness that sight, when every hammer blow must have struck the innermost part of his being, and the sound of every rending saw have torn his heart? Who can conceive what went through his mind when he saw the dream of a lifetime and the arduous labors of seven long years going to pieces before him?

No Sign of Dismay

"But there he stood in full gaze of the silent observing crowd, courageous, unbroken, showing no sign of dismay.

"How great is the human heart daring to oppose all the forces of this world, and how weak in comparison is the work of the human hand which may be torn into pieces by a breath of air."

This comment by Eckener is much less severe than earlier ones. But though the faith and fortitude of Count Zeppelin had impressed him he could still see no practical use for so fragile a vehicle.

The real story of his conversion to lighter-than-air was related by Dr. Eckener himself for the first time in New York at the conclusion of his world flight.

TOMORROW: Dr. Eckener's Own description of his first meeting with Count Zeppelin.

SPRINGDALE

SPRINGDALE, Sept. 20.—Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ruoff of Los Angeles have taken an apartment in the J. J. Graham home and Ruoff is assisting his father, Albert Ruoff, with his ranch work. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Edwards and family of Villa Park, were recent visitors in the home of Mrs. Edwards' brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Houser.

Several of the large eucalyptus trees on the McDonald ranch were blown down by the heavy winds experienced one night this week. A tank roof on the Dixon ranch was taken off and young trees and shrubs were damaged.

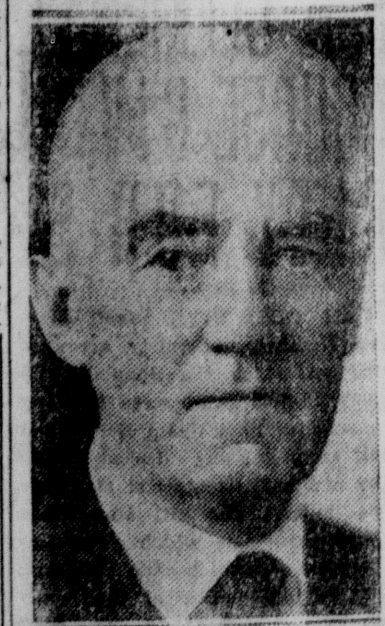

Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Roberson had as Wednesday visitors in their home, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hare of Sawtelle and Mrs. Eliza Prettyman of Long Beach.

Fred Mallett's bean crop was the first in the community to be threshed this season.

Mr. and Mrs. George Crane entertained as their guests recently Dr. and Mrs. Sommers and their four children, of China, and they with their guests and Mrs. Crane's brother, Lee Wentzel, and family.

"I feel it my duty to tell others who may be suffering as I was what quick and splendid benefits I obtained from Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills.

CHARLES MCCALLIN

"For a year I had been badly rundown, suffering a great deal from neuritis which I am sure was due to a toxic condition. I was greatly troubled with nervous indigestion and got into such a condition that almost everything I ate upset me and caused distress. My strength and energy were so low I was often at the point of exhaustion.

"I started Sargon and before I finished the second bottle I was feeling like a different man. I now enjoy good meals without the least trouble with indigestion. I sleep well, get up feeling refreshed and am gaining weight. The pills were by far the most effective laxative I ever tried. They are a fit companion for Sargon—because it is undoubtedly the most remarkable medicine I ever saw for building up a rundown system."

The above statement was recently made by Charles McCallin, 419 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco, retired stock broker.

Sargon may be obtained in Santa Ana at the Schramm-Johnson Drug Store.

The second lima bean crop in Springdale was being threshed on the Albert Ruoff ranch Tuesday when the rain came and as a result 150 sacks became soaked. Twelve hundred sacks, or about half of the Ruoff crop had been threshed up to that time and those in the fields were not injured by the rain.

Mrs. Charles Decker visited the dahlia show at the Biltmore hotel in Los Angeles.

Miss Viola Shonle returned Tuesday from Los Angeles where she went on Sunday to visit her friends.

Word of the death of Mrs. Homer Sprinkle, former local resident, has been received here. Mrs. Sprinkle's death occurred September 17 in Fresno, where the family home is located.

Use imagination and a little sugar to make vegetable foods delicious

Few things are more important than balanced diet in promoting health

COOKING experts are using their ingenuity to develop delicious methods of preparing vegetables. A well-known expert furnishes us this recipe for Polish Beets:

Peel 12 small cooked beets and mince fine with a fork. Put in a saucepan and sprinkle with a tablespoon of sugar. Add a tablespoon of vinegar, 1 tablespoon of salt and pepper and heat. Melt 2 tablespoons of butter and blend with it 1 tablespoon of flour. Stir this into the mixture. Add ½ cup sour cream and heat.

Whatever recipe you are using and whatever vegetable you are cooking, try adding a dash of sugar for a new, enjoyable flavor. This is an old secret recently rediscovered. It is not the purpose of the sugar to make the vegetables taste sweet. The dash of sugar brings out the delicate flavors of the foods and blends these with the seasonings used. Sugar is the master blender and the supreme condiment. It is the right hand of successful cookery.

Serve a varied, balanced diet—at least two cooked vegetables and at least two fruits daily. See that each member of your family drinks milk and eats milk desserts. You can often make meats more appetizing by adding a dash of sugar while cooking. Use a dash of sugar to improve meat gravies, sauces and soups. Learn the art of serving colorful and satisfying desserts. A bit of sweet makes the meal complete. The Sugar Institute. —Adv.

How a Family Doctor made Millions of Friends

FIFTEEN years after his graduation, Dr. Caldwell became one of the best-known members of his profession. A single prescription made him famous. And for forty years it has continued to make friends.

As fast as people could tell others about the marvelous way this prescription corrects constipation and relieves other troubles caused by sluggish bowels, demand for it spread until Dr. Caldwell was forced to have it filled in quantities, bottled and distributed through drug stores.

Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is the world's most popular laxative. Millions of people would never think of using anything else when they're headachy, bilious, feverish, or weak; when breath is bad, tongue is coated or they are suffering from nausea, from gas, or lack of appetite, etc.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin as you buy it from your drug store is made in accordance with the original formula from only herbs and other pure ingredients. It is pleasant tasting; its action is thorough in the most obstinate cases; gently effective for women and children. Above all, it represents a doctor's choice of what is safe for the bowels.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

As Bobby Jones was going to the tee for his match with Johnny Goodman in the national amateur, young Lawson Little, Frisco kid player, called out, "I hope you trim him, Bobby, so I can knock you off this afternoon." Goodman beat Bobby, but young Little knocked off Johnny in the afternoon. . . . Bobby Jones in the afternoon. . . . The crowd followed and cheered him until his ears got all red. . . . They named the bunker in front of the fourteenth green at Pebble Beach "Jones' Grave." . . . George Voight found his grave there, too. . . . THE CIRCUS AND THE RING

John Ringling has withdrawn his circus from Madison Square Garden with the curt statement that circuses and boxing do not mix. Garden authorities wanted Ringling to leave Friday nights open for boxing and the showman refused to comply. Another circus will occupy the Garden, with Fridays reserved for the milt-acrobats.

Ringling was a friend of Rickard's in the days when Rickard needed friends most. Tex had some pretty tough going and met all kinds of opposition when he first started to crash New York. Ringling and the million-aire, Richard Hoyt, backed Tex against a whole pack of foxes, giraffes and wolves and Tex won.

WHY, MR. RINGLING!

Mr. Ringling errs a trifle though in saying that circuses and boxing do not mix, according to our opinion. The ring today, with four divisions lacking champions, and Gorgonzola champions in several of the other classes, boasts as many clowns and freaks as John himself could wish for as a side show attraction. And that's not counting the foxes and wolves who go about in the disguise of boxers' managers seeking what they may devour.

In this corner we have Victoria Campolo, the elongated equine from the Argentine. By sheer force of his gigantic build he is getting consideration from the promoters. He is a rhinoceros of a man. When he goes out to fight he just throws his arms around and if his paws hit something, down it goes.

ROLE FOR SHARKEY

Mr. Ringling could stage his circus and have his boxing, too, by employing Jack Sharkey to sit a couple of hours every afternoon in the parrot's cage, making sundry wisecracks for the customers' benefit. In one corner of the arena, Mr. Ringling could assemble all the tank men, the lads who dive into the resin in order to build up some shrewd manager's candor. The tank artists could do assorted dives, showing how a big strong man can be knocked out by a whack over the whiskers with a feather pillow. P. T. Barnum, in his search for mermaids and woolly horses, surely would have been satisfied if he could have collected a couple of these expert divers and exhibited them to the public for 10 cents, where you have to pay $3 and do ordinarily to watch them do their stuff only once in the ring.

FIGHTING CHAMPS

A circus all by itself would be staged with the fellows who said they were going to be fighting champions if they should win the titles in their division. Sammy Mandell and Jackie Fields could be featured as the big shots in this department. Fields, who

DONS OPEN SEASON HERE TOMORROW

Long Beach, Riverside Set For Bowl Battle

ACORNS LIKELY TO CINCH FLAG HERE TONIGHT

The night baseball championship of Southern California may be decided in the Santa Ana Bowl tonight when Long Beach and Riverside collide in the fifth game of the series between the winners of the Orange County and American leagues.

Already 3 to 1 ahead in games, Long Beach is expected to clinch the title with one more win over the Inlanders who have found the Acorn pitching staff entirely too strong for them.

The remaining games of the series were brought here because neither Long Beach nor Riverside boasts a park capable of accommodating the crowds that have thronged to see them play.

A large block of tickets for reserved seats was set aside for Riverside county night baseball fans. The sale of these has been slow but a last minute rush is anticipated before game-time. Tickets may be secured in any number at the Bowl tonight. They will sell at 50 cents, the price having been set by Southern California association of officials.

Riverside took the first game of the series at Long Beach, 4 to 3, but lost the next three in succession, 3 to 0, 4 to 0, and 2 to 1, the last in 11 innings. Bobby Dalton will toll for the Acorns tonight. Riverside is sure to depend on its lone ace, Jimmie Duncan, to keep the Inlanders in the race. Long Beach's three star moundsmen, Dalton, Morning and Lichtenwalter, have alternated the gunning duties with great success while Duncan has had to work every game of the series but one and the "iron man" chores have taken toll. The game is scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock.

J. C. WOMEN BEGIN COURT DRILL SOON

Official basketball practice for Santa Ana Junior college women will begin next Monday at 2:30 p. m., Mrs. Ellen Foote, head of the women's athletic department and coach, announced today.

The basketball season will continue until the Christmas holidays with games scheduled with Orange county high school teams and an interclass series. Practice will be held Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, from 2:30 to 4:30 p. m. The freshmen of 1928-29 had an unusually good team which is returning practically intact this year. The entering freshmen are also very strong, having many stars from teams throughout the county, especially Santa Ana high school.

Other sports in the girls' athletic calendar are also going to be organized soon. The first call for swimming will be issued September 24 by Mrs. Foote and tennis practice will be inaugurated on the same day by Miss Zena Leck, coach.

WALKER-HUDKINS GO FOR L. A. PROBABLE

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20.—The long deferred match between Mickey Walker, world's middle-weight champion, and Ace Hudkins, leading contender, was partly closed yesterday when Hudkins signed a contract to take 121-2 per cent of the gate for the challenger's end. Walker is expected to sign today on a percentage basis of the $100,000 guarantee demanded.

The bout is planned by Jack Doyle for Wrigley field October 22. Unless Joe Anderson succeeds in defeating Hudkins Tuesday night the Walker-Hudkins bout will be staged at Wrigley field October 22. Last October Anderson won over Hudkins and if he should repeat will take Hudkins' place in the championship lineup.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 20.—Young Nationalista, Filipino boxer, is favored to defeat Clayton Goudy when they meet here tonight in a scheduled 10-round event.

Shires Will Repent; May Rejoin Club

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Baseball's "bad boy" is ready to repent, the United Press learned today from the fiancée of Art Shires, youthful Chicago White Sox first baseman who is under suspension for engaging in a fight with Manager Lena Blackburne and Traveling Secretary Lou Barbour at Philadelphia a week ago.

"If they'll only give me another chance," Shires told his fiancée here before leaving for the West in an effort to straighten out the tangle. "I'll put all my surplus energy into getting base hits and winning ball games instead of getting into jams."

Shires thinks he has been the worst of a bad deal according to his fiancée, but he is ready and willing to let bygones be bygones if the White Sox will take him back.

PRINTERS TAKE FIRST GAME OF SERIES, 12-10

The Dennis Printers were well on their way toward the undisputed championship of the Santa Ana Twilight league today. They were one up on the Shell Oil company, needed only one more victory in two games to complete the downfall of the first half winners.

Putting the blocks to Gunner Earl Jones in the sixth inning, the Printers won the first game of the two-out-of-three series in the Bowl last night. The score was fairly close, 12 to 10, but the Royal Dutchmen never threatened seriously after they saw their 6 to 4 lead blasted by a Printer rally in the sixth that netted eight runs.

Resume Series Monday

The series will be resumed Monday night. If the Shells win a third and deciding contest will be played Thursday.

After two scoreless innings, the Shells marked once in the third after two were dead with Lory Roehm socked a home run. The Printers came back in their half with three scores on singles by Smiley, Mossberg and Peterson and a double by Mack.

Shell Oil tied the count at three-all in the fourth, scoring twice on Sands' walk, Sturzeneger's fielder's choice and several wild pitches. Then the Dutchmen took the lead with two more runs in the fifth. Dorman hitting a double to score Peck and Veale who had drawn passes. Peck's double behind a Roehm's walk made the Shell lead 6 to 4 in the first of the sixth, the Printers having made one in their half of the fifth on hits by Smiley, Mossberg and Peterson.

Jones Blows Up

Jones blew up with a loud report in the last of the sixth, however, and the Printers combed him for eight of their twelve runs. Five players hit safely in succession, K

STARS CAPTURE BENEFIT GAME BY 7-2 SCORE

Santa Ana's Stars went back into hibernation today after coming out of retirement last night to defeat the Long Beach City League All-Stars, 7 to 2, in a game that was played at Costa Mesa for the benefit of the Orange County Health camp. A large crowd witnessed the contest which was sponsored by the Costa Mesa Lions club.

Plugging away without a run for seven innings, the Stars won the tiff with a typical driving finish, scoring three in the eighth and four in the ninth.

1929 Football Season To Open Saturday

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—The 1929 football season starts tomorrow.

Interest in the East centers largely around the impending clash at Morgantown, W. Va., between the West Virginia university Mountaineers and the Bob Cats of West Virginia Wesleyan. That game is the major contest of the day in the Eastern sector. The Pacific Coast teams have two important games. Stanford has a warm-up with West Coast Army at Palo Alto. Oregon State meets Willamette.

SAN CLEMENTE COURSE GIVEN CITY FOR $1

SAN CLEMENTE, Sept. 20.—One hundred and thirty acres of land on which the Spanish Village's 18-hole golf course is being constructed by William Bell, noted golf architect, was deeded to the city of San Clemente last night for one dollar. The gift was made by the syndicate which owns San Clemente, of which Ole Hanson, founder and builder of the Spanish Village, is the head. The deed was accepted by Mayor Thomas F. Murphine and members of the city council.

Ole Hanson stated that the syndicate would finish completion of the first nine, work on which is almost finished and that grading of the second nine would continue until completed. All the greens of the first nine are up and will soon be ready for play. Fire fairways have been planted and work on seeding the remaining four will be carried out on schedule. It is estimated that the land given to the city has a value of more than $600,000. Upon completion of the 18 holes, it is said by experts, that the city of San Clemente will be owners of a course worth at least $700,000.

JULIA LATHROP BEGINS SEASON WITH 7-2 WIN

Coach Ferris Scott's Julia C. Lathrop junior high school football squad opened its 1929 season with a 7 to 2 victory over Orange high school's Class B eleven at Orange yesterday.

The Spartans made a touchdown in the third quarter to overcome a safety scored against them in the second period, when Shaffer was tackled back of his own goal while trying to kick out of danger.

Coach Scott was well pleased with the showing of his charges, many of whom had been out for practice but a few days.

Pargess and Kruger starred for Orange. Douglass, playing his first game of football, made many fine tackles at guard for Julia Lathrop. The 98-pound Spartan end, Harold Bowe, looked good on defense while Herb Bowe and Shaffer were outstanding in the backfield.

TENNIS AGES BEGIN L. A. TOURNEY PLAY

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20.—The annual Pacific Southwest tennis championships started at the Los Angeles Tennis club today with many national and international stars entered in the competition. Johnny Doeg, young Southern California player who gave Bill Tilden a hard battle in the finals of the national championships recently, is a favorite in the men's singles.

A feature of today's play was a series of international exhibitions. Johnny Van Ryn, Tami Abe, Miss Mary Greet, Johnny Doeg, Bunny Austin, the British star, and others were entered.

SANTA ANA COLLEGE FACES CHAFFEY AT LOCAL FIELD; LINEUP IS PROBLEMATICAL

The honor of staging the first football game of the 1929 season here fell to the Santa Ana high school gridgers when they played Orange high school this afternoon but the Santa Ana junior college pigskin spinners will second the motion loudly tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 when the jaycee team from Chaffey invades the local football emporium for a season opener in college circles.

Just how the teams coached by Both Warner and Adams are adept at snagging passes and several high class passers have the proper technique to feed them the ball. Hal Dunham is another player sure to see action. He probably will relieve Adams.

Captain Harold Hyton is sure to start at one tackle with Tim Wallace or Ernest Stump at the other berth.

Hyton is rounding into last year's form and his 180 pounds are sure to be useful. Wallace scales 180 also while Stump, weighs about 170 and stands well over six feet.

The starting nod for the guard positions are almost sure to go to the veterans Joe Warner and Smith Griewood. Both are fast at running interference and can take bigger and better men out of the plays. Al Kluthe, former Anaheim high school captain, will start at center.

Considerably more puzzling is the group Cook will hook together in the backfield. No less than three or four high-powered fullbacks await his call. Two or three quarterbacks are eager to show their ware, Halfbacks galore roam the new turf and Mr. Cook's little job of picking out just four is one of the ways he earns his pay.

Big Bill Crawford, 180-pound line plunger and running guard, may play fullback. John Dugdale, heavy and rangy, also might assume those duties. Lloyd (Red) Manderscheid is rated as capable as either and Jack Dutton, Rob Drysdale and several others can fill the fullback position competently.

Melvin Beatty and Leonard Noland are hogging the quarterback job to themselves. Both are fast, can pass and hit the line while Beatty also kicks well.

As for halfbacks, Coach Cook is "from Missouri" and will try out everybody to take stock of their ability, if any. Orville Schuchardt was an untouchable spirit at Anaheim the other day. Franklin Vanhelm has plenty of weight and blocking skill. Wayne Garlock can pass and carry the ball well. Jack Rime is plenty fast. Baxter Goetting looks promising, and "Ken" Tanaka is elusive and speedy.

Five newcomers reporting for the team yesterday gave Cook some more material to work on. Especially welcome was the return of Frank Miles, the last of the lettermen to report. Miles has been working and just registered yesterday. The other boys were Charles Andres, Raymond Glesner, Robert Squier and Simeon Toelle. Helping Cook with the coaching duties are several former Don stars including Blanchard Beatty, back; Jack Casey, guard; Don Woodington, captain and center, and Maurice Guyer, back.

field, took second on a wild pitch, stole third and went home on a passed ball.

"Memphy" Hill started Santa Ana's rally in the eighth. The little shortstop hit a single, stole second and went to third when Merrill then worked the double steal, Merrill pulling up at third in the confusion. Nelson's sacrifice fly tallied Merrill. Scott then batted out a single, stole second and scored on Wilcox's single.

Santa Ana scored four more in the ninth on five hits, a sacrifice fly and an error.

Long Beach started a rally in its half of the ninth and made one run on a walk, two hits and an error by Wyant before a pop fly and a beautiful running catch by Nelson ended the encounter at the end. Ochoa turned in a fine game, his change of pace coming in fooling the Long Beach hitters at times. He fanned 12 in all. The score:

PRINTERS DEFEAT SHELL OIL, 12-10

Gibson, Gonzales, R. Gibson and Smiley. Lutz was safe on an error and Mossberg and Mack followed with doubles to complete the attack.

The Dutchmen kept pegging away, profiting by Mack's extreme wildness, but were never able to catch up. An error, a fielder's choice and Veale's triple gave the Oilers two in the eighth and Sander's walk, wild pitches and Burkett's sacrifice fly accounted for still another in the ninth.

Mack walked ten men but yielded only six hits and was tighter in the pinches than Jones although the Shell veteran did fairly well outside of his one disastrous inning.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20.—Don Moses, University of Southern California fullback, discarded his crutches last night and Trojan stock for the Washington game October 12 went soaring.

Moses injured his foot scuffling on a beach last summer. Coach Howard Jones said that the injury was healing better than had been expected but that Moses will receive only very light work for two weeks.

Moses played on the 1927 team and was not in college last year. Huse had been declared ineligible but made up some backward studies and the faculty ban was lifted.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20.—Football prospects at the University of California at Los Angeles picked up a bit last night when Ed Solomon, halfback, and Russell Huse, tackle, turned out for practice.

Solomon played on the 1927 team and was not in college last year.

Huse had been declared ineligible but made up some backward studies and the faculty ban was lifted.

Moderator Calls Meet To Settle Second Baptist Row

LIONS PROGRAM IS PRESENTED BY 20-30 CLUB

Returning a call made some months ago, Vic Walker, president of the Santa Ana 20-30 club, and a group of members of that organization visited the Lions club yesterday, and presented a program that was greatly appreciated by those present.

The program, under the direction of Dr. R. C. Currie, consisted of several lively musical selections and an address by Frank Humphries on "The Significance of the Flight of the Graf Zeppelin." Harry Jensen, Dorothy McDonald and Norwood Nye presented the musical part of the entertainment. Jensen and Miss McDonald are becoming radio entertainers of note, according to the program chairman.

Humphries outlined the development of balloons and dirigibles and contrasted the old-time county fair attraction of a balloon ascension with a trapeze performer with the flights of the Goodyear blimp that appeared in connection with the Orange County fair. "Progress in lighter-than-air craft development has been slow, due to the lack of a safe inflating gas," the speaker declared, and continued with a description of the discovery, several years ago, of helium gas in a Kansas oil well. Helium has great buoyant properties and will not burn or explode.

The speaker declared that the flight of the Graf marked the return of Germany to a position of importance in world affairs and declared that the welcome dinner in Los Angeles, which was attended by many nationalities, each respecting the other, showed that the evergreen of peace had come from the ashes of sorrow following the great war. Humphries also pointed out that the Zeppelin was a living monument erected by a conquered people to peace. "The scientific mind of the world must co-operate to make such trips faster and safer," Humphries averred. "There is a need, now, for new maps to cover the phases of aeronautical travel."

The 20-30 club speaker also paid a tribute to women as typified in the person of Lady Drummond Hay. "The women of today have demonstrated their capability of taking their place in business and flying. No longer is their place at home as an ornament or a servant," he declared, "but out in the world in contact with affairs."

"The Graf Zeppelin annihilates time and space and we may soon look for the United Nations of the World. The Graf has accomplished more on its flight as a messenger of peace on earth, good will toward men, than all the conferences and peace treaties."

The first meeting of the Junior Lions was announced preceding the program, yesterday, for 6:30 p. m., next Tuesday, in Ketter's cafe. This organization begins activities with the opening of school.

Judge J. B. Tucker, at the invitation of the Lions club, spoke briefly yesterday concerning the plans of the Masons of the city for the building of a fine Masonic temple.

An invitation for another inter-club meeting, extended by President Walker, of the 20-30 club, was accepted by Lyle Anderson, head of the Lions club.

WHAT IT MEANS TO BE PRESIDENT

By Calvin Coolidge

Article No. 4

PRESIDENTIAL SPEECHES REQUIRE CAREFUL THOUGHT
AND PAINSTAKING LABOR—AN IMPORTANT PART OF DUTIES

One of the most appalling trials which confronts a President is the perpetual clamor for public utterances. Invitations are constant and pressing. They come by wire, by mail, and by delegations. No event of importance is celebrated by any group anywhere in the United States without their inviting him to come to deliver an oration. When others are enjoying a holiday, he is expected to make a public appearance in order to entertain and instruct by a formal address. There are a few public statements that he does not deliver in person, like proclamations and messages, which go to the congress, either reporting his views on the state of the Union in his annual message or giving his reasons for rejecting legislation in a veto. These productions vary in length. My annual message would be about 12,000 words. My speeches would average a little over 2000 words. In the course of a year the entire number reaches about 20, which probably represents an output of at least 75,000 words.

Exact Work

This kind of work is very exacting. It requires the most laborious and extended research and study, and the most careful and painstaking thought. Each word has to be weighed, in the realization that it is a presidential utterance which will be dissected at home and abroad to discover its outward meaning and any possible hidden implications. Before each address was finished it was thoroughly examined by one or two of my staff, and oftentimes by a member of the cabinet. It was not difficult for me to deliver an address. The difficulty lay in its preparation. This is an important part of the work of a president which he cannot escape. It is inherent in the office.

A great many presents come to the White House, which are all cherished, not so much for their intrinsic value as because they are tokens of esteem and affection. Almost everything that can be eaten comes. We always knew

OBJECTION TO IMPROVEMENT LAWS IS TOLD

Commenting on dispatches from Sacramento stating that a committee of the state legislature is working on a plan to simplify and cut down the number of existing street improvement procedural laws, looking to the recommendation of legislation that will permit efficient, economical and expeditious construction of public improvements, City Engineer Clyde Jenken stated today that the idea behind the present improvement laws is to protect the public and that care must be taken in any steps tending to simplify or hurry improvement proceedings.

"The main objection to the present improvement proceedings, as regulated by law," Jenken stated, "is that there is no provision made to permit alternate bids to be made on various types of material to be used in the improvement. The law provides that the kind of material must be determined before the proceedings are started and this allows no opportunity for competitive bidding for one kind against another. This is particularly true where some patented product is involved."

"City officials have enough power concerning improvement proceedings under the present acts and the property owners are sufficiently protected. This should be borne in mind in making any changes. The hearings now provided for must not be disturbed."

The committee to be appointed by Lt. Gov. H. L. Carnahan, for the senate, and Speaker Edgar C. Levey, for the assembly, is to consist of three members of the senate and four from the assembly, and was authorized by a resolution introduced at the last legislature session. This committee is ordered by the resolution to simplify and cut the number of existing laws relating to street improvement procedure and to recommend only such legislation as will be necessary to permit efficient, economical and expeditious construction of public improvements.

The action of the legislature following declarations that California's street improvement laws are antiquated, being passed when the tremendous increase in population in the state was not anticipated; that many municipalities are struggling along with street work that needs new and adequate legislation for its completion, and that the problem particularly is acute in Southern California. Several measures to provide temporary relief were acted upon by the last legislature, but a general revision was deemed essential and resulted in the resolution calling for the committee.

The committee will work without compensation and is provided a fund of $7500 for clerical and other

BOY REDS HOLD JAMBOREE

It was a banner day for young Communists who staged an international jamboree in Moscow, Russia. The youthful Reds are pictured below as they paraded through the streets of the Soviet capital bearing aloft grotesque figures representing "Capitalism" and the "White Russian Terror." The Communist boys' organization is opposed to the Boy Scout movement and their Jamboree of Youth was held in Moscow while the Boy Scout Jamboree was in progress at Birkenhead, England.

MUCH INTEREST IN EXTENSION COURSES HERE

A great increase in interest is being shown this year in the University of California extension courses, registration for which will open next week in the Julia Lathrop junior high school, according to Miss Hazel Nell Bemus, extension instructor.

The university extension courses, to be offered for the fifth year in Santa Ana, are open to everyone, regardless of previous education. They offer credits toward entrance to the university, as well as affording teachers additional credit toward their degrees.

Miss Robert Ethel Phillips, of this city, will offer classes, beginning Monday, September 23, from 4 p. m. to 6:30 p. m. in story-telling, and from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. in dictation.

On Tuesdays, Mrs. Frances Hunt Beeson, teacher in the Santa Ana schools, will offer a cultural course in music appreciation for adults. Her classes will be held or expenses. Its report must be made to the governor not later than Dec. 31, 1930, which will result in the chief executive having sufficient time for study of the report and making such recommendations as he may deem necessary before submitting it to the 1931 legislature, which will enact it into law should it approve the plan.

HARBOR SCHOOL ELECTION TO BE HELD SATURDAY

Citizens of Newport Beach and Costa Mesa will go to the polls tomorrow to decide for or against the formation of a new union high school district for the harbor section. The polls will be open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., and the polling places will be located in the grammar schools.

The one question to be decided tomorrow is whether or not the residents want a high school district of their own. At the present time the students living in Costa Mesa and Newport Beach attend Santa Ana and Huntington Beach high schools.

In the event the voters favor the formation of the new school district, County Superintendent of Schools Mitchell will call an election for the selection of trustees for the district. The matter of selection of a site and erection of buildings will be in the hands of the trustees.

The use of sauerkraut has increased fifteen per cent per year.

FIGHT CENTERS ON ATTEMPT TO OUST MINISTER

With members of the Santa Ana Second Baptist church unable to iron out difference that have disrupted the organization for the last year, a special council meeting of the National Baptist association has been called for 7:30 p. m., September 30, in the Santa Ana church building, on West Eighth street, for the purpose of attempting an adjustment that will again unite the congregation, it became known today, following a conference here, yesterday afternoon, of representatives of the First Baptist and Second Baptist churches with Dr. William D. Carter, moderator of the association and pastor of the Friendship Baptist church, in Pasadena.

According to reports, the friction in the ranks of the membership of the colored church has been occasioned by dissatisfaction of a portion of the membership with the Rev. D. L. McGriff, pastor. It is asserted that efforts to oust the pastor have been unsuccessful.

The conference here yesterday was held in the office of the Rev. Harry Ewart Gwines, pastor of the First Baptist church, those present being Dr. Carter, the Rev. Mr. Gwines, Thomas Fitzgerald, D. J. Wallace and B. Berkley, the last three men representing the colored church congregation.

At the urgent request of the group, Dr. Carter consented to call a meeting of the council, in the hope that action will be taken that will result in elimination of the factional differences that have disrupted the harmony of the congregation.

Discussing the coming meeting of the council, the Rev. Mr. Gwines said that it is important that all interested parties be present.

For the fortieth consecutive year members of the Orange county W. C. T. U. will gather for their annual convention, to be held this year at the Methodist White Temple church in Anaheim, lasting through Thursday and Friday of next week.

Plans for the affair were made by the Anaheim union with Mrs. Eva Fendley acting as chairman of the hostess committee. Others who will act as hostesses during the two days' session are the county officers who include Mrs. Estelle Harper, president; Mrs. Cora Hale, vice president; Mrs. Sarah Brown, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Elizabeth Warren, recording secretary, and Mrs. Alma Kellogg, treasurer.

The convention will be called to order Thursday morning at 10 o'clock by Mrs. Harper and the consecration services will follow immediately under the leadership of Mrs. T. H. Walker, county evangelist.

National Secretary Is Speaker at Meeting Of Women Voters

That the League of Women Voters, characterized by Miss Florence Harrison of Washington, D. C., national secretary, as a co-operative enterprise in intelligent citizenship has accomplished a great deal of good in this country, among the women voters was the statement made yesterday by Miss Harrison in an address before the local league at a luncheon meeting at Ketter's cafe.

The league's work started in 1920, Miss Harrison stated, when in many states women voted for the first time. On this occasion the league organized ballot classes and taught thousands of women the process of voting. Since that time, according to the national officer, the league has been responsible for many improvements in the form of the ballot.

The speaker told of the responsibility of every citizen towards his or her government and she added that everyone should make an effort to play her part in the government in as wise a manner as possible.

She mentioned the many aims of the league and described the detailed way in which it delves into each problem of interest to it. In this respect she told of the pamphlets that are issued on important questions and of the amount of time and work required in preparing them.

Miss Harrison declared that the league never endorses a movement in the name of its thousands of members, but always states that the endorsement is the result of action taken under certain conditions, in this way leaving members who disagree with the action free to do as they like in the matter.

Miss Harrison was introduced by Mrs. George J. Costigan of Berkeley, regional director of the western states, who in turn was introduced by Mrs. J. C. Whitman of San Mateo, state president.

The business meeting of the local league was presided over by Mrs. George Mangold who was made president last spring, and she asked Mrs. Carl Mock, recording secretary, to report on a meeting of the water commission of the Chamber of Commerce which she attended recently. Mrs. Mock told of the work accomplished by the commission and stated that a detailed report would be given by the commission at a meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce to be held next Thursday at Yboria Linda.

Mrs. Anita Alexander announced that the monthly study class of the league would be held the first Wednesday of each month at the Y.M.C.A. The class will begin at 9:30 a.m. and the subject for discussion will be "County Government."

The next meeting of the league will take place Thursday, October 17, at 10:30 a.m.

Chrysanthemums Add Lovely Note to Luncheon

The blue room of Ketter's cafe, lovely with graceful chrysanthemums in the vivid tones of autumn arranged in artistic fashion in tall baskets and in bouquets at the luncheon tables was the scene of a pretty affair yesterday afternoon when Past Matrons of Hermosa chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, were entertained by Mesdames M. B. Lacy, Max Reinhaus, Harvey Trueblood and C. E. Moore.

A color scheme of yellow and orchid was carried out in the flowers and in other appointments as well as in the dainty corsages of orchid sweet peas and yellow rose buds that were presented to the guests as a charming souvenir of the occasion.

Following a talk on the new Masonic temple, members voted to donate a sum of money to the building fund.

Mrs. T. A. Winbiger, chairman of the program committee, introduced Miss Margaret Gaebke who gave several clever readings. Guests included Mesdames Minnie Briggs, Joe Burke, Thomas Star, Mrs. F. T. Cloyes, L. T. Clem, F. D. Drake, Ida Dunphy, John J. Drake, C. W. Ellis, W. D. Finn, Nona Franklin, Ada B. Griffith, M. E. Gilbert, Minnie Holmes, H. T. Jones, J. W. McCormac, J. R. Medlock, J. G. Mitchell, T. A. Mair, A. H. Pearce, Jennie Peek, F. C. Rowland, Fannie Reeves, W. M. Robbins, William Strassberger, W. H. Thomas, Alice Tubbs, J. A. Turley, W. V. Whitson, T. A. Winbiger and Miss Pauline Reinhaus.

Hospitable Beach Home Is Setting for Meeting

The hospitable beach home of Mrs. George Bond at Balboa Island was the setting for a delightful affair yesterday when members of the Pegasus club met there for an afternoon's program on "Indians."

Mrs. R. Caldwell opened the program with an excellent paper on "Indians of Peru" which was followed by the reading of a poem, "The White Man's Burden," by Mrs. William Foote. Mrs. Fannie Lash presented an original essay on "The American Indian."

Miss Marjory Lusk's clever story, "Echoes From Pioneer Days," presented an interesting picture of early America as did Mrs. Charles Brisco's "The Wild Indians."

Many interesting facts concerning Pueblo and Navajo Indians were learned from the essay written by Mrs. George Bond.

Especially appealing was the original poem by Mrs. Frank Was, "A Vanquished Race." Mrs. Fuller presented an interpretation of "Hiawatha" and Mrs. Havelay gave an original story, "A Coulterville Indian."

The program was concluded with an article on Navajo rugs by Mrs. Clarence Bond and an original essay, "The Glory That Was Mayan," by Mrs. C. F. Jackson.

Ebbel Gardeners Find Many Fair Gardens In Our Village

Enthusiasm already aroused among Ebbel Garden section members for their year's work, and especially the autumn flower show to be held October 10 and 11, was considerably heightened by the pleasure of their first meeting of the year, held yesterday in Laguna Beach, under particularly delightful conditions.

For Ernest Bowen, landscape artist and nurseryman of Our Village, and his sister, Miss Ida E. Bowen, had extended an invitation to the clubwomen to spend the day with them, and take a little "sightseeing tour" of some of the lovely village gardens. Accepting the invitation with enthusiasm, the clubwomen prepared a picnic luncheon of the most delectable of home-cooked foods and sandwiches, and with Miss Bowen adding amber coffee, feasted in the midst of their host's own charming garden, in a lovely little arbor happily designed for just such features. One of the pleasant minor happenings of the day, was the surprise birthday cake with 16 glittering candles, which confronted Mrs. Clyde Bach, an active member, and which showed her that she had not been quite successful in maintaining the secret of its being her natal day.

Special guests present were Mrs. William H. DeWolfe, Ebbel curator, and Mrs. Enry D. White, financial chairman, who were thus placed in closer touch with the plans of the section for the approaching fall flower show; Mrs. L. W. Hypes, whom the section claims as its "honorary member" through her always active aid in staging the semi-annual flower shows and garden bazaars, and Messrs. F. P. Jayne and J. T. Wilson, "section trailers" who kept Mr. Bowen from being the sole masculine guest.

In the afternoon, the first "port of call" was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Snyder, who have an entire canyon landscaped until it proved truly a dream of delight. Color and mass had been handled most effectively, the guests declared, and they were especially impressed by the unusual variety of tropical fruits, many of which were new and strange to them.

The spacious Spanish home of Claude Bronner was also visited, and the guests enjoyed its many artistic features as well as the Spanish gardens, later assembling in the patio where their host served tea.

Many new ideas were gained for the flower show, according to Mrs. F. P. Jayne, section leader, who today declared that every indication is that the event will exceed in beauty and charm, any similar exhibit presented by the society.

Six Santa Ana women attended the executive meeting of the San Diego district Woman's Home Missionary society at the Anaheim White Temple church, yesterday. They were Mrs. S. M. Davis, Mrs. R. R. Lutes, Mrs. F. E. Hutchins, Mrs. C. W. Burns, Mrs. A. LeRoy Grimm and Mrs. Sherman Buck.

Prominent Woman Poet To Give Program At Ebell

Miss Robert Ethel Phillips, sister of Ernest Crozier Phillips of the faculty of the Santa Ana junior college, who has recently returned from New York to take up her fall classes in story telling and speaking voice for the extension division of the University of California, will speak Monday afternoon at a meeting of the Ebell society.

Miss Phillips is considered by many critics one of America's outstanding women poets and her address will probably include several of her best known poems.

While in New York she acted as executive secretary of the New York Poets' guild and in this capacity she met many well known poets and she will give pictures of them as a part of the afternoon's program. In some cases she will read their poetry.

While she was executive secretary of the guild she came into close contact with the settlement work through Christodora Settlement, a house sponsored by the guild. Her experiences here will also be included in the interesting talk.

During the past summer and spring Miss Phillips made more than 30 appearances before the leading literary organizations in New York, in lectures and recitals, including the Poetry Society of America, National Arts club, League of American Pen Women, National Book-fellows, Pen and Brush club and the New York Federated clubs. She also gave a series of independent lectures in story telling for teachers, while there.

Monday afternoon's meeting will begin at 2 o'clock with Mrs. R. G. Tuthill, president, in the chair.

Chummy Inn Setting For Card Party

Chummy Inn, the charming Laguna Beach summer home of Mrs. William C. Watkins of 1342 North Ross street, was the scene of an informal fall affair this week.

Huge bowls and baskets of dahlias in tones of deep yellow, red and brown lent an autumnal touch to the one o'clock luncheon, after which the guests assembled on the porch, where attractive yellow bric-a-brac tables and chairs had been arranged facing the ocean.

At the close of the play of hearts, prize for high score went to Mrs. Mollie Tyrell, while Miss Geraldine Cole placed second.

Guests for the luncheon were Mrs. Fred L. Cole, Mrs. Mollie Tyrell, Mrs. J. N. Norton, Mrs. Horace Head, Mrs. Nan Teague and Miss Geraldine Cole, all of Santa Ana.

Don't worry about enlarged pores

Clubs Fashions WOMAN'S PAGE Weddings Household

by Louise Stephenson

The WOMAN'S DAY

There's nothing like a baby for complicating living conditions in city apartments. A bride moved into a four-story walk-up apartment, and everything went beautifully until Junior came. Even Junior was alright, but of course he had to have a perambulator. Babies don't navigate by themselves at the start.

And the question of where to put the baby's sedan caused considerable grief. At first, it was just parked inside the door on the first floor.

OBJECTS
Then the tenant on the first floor complained. He was a bachelor and he often gave parties to his friends in the evening. The sight of a baby carriage just outside his door caused his friends to become very witty at his expense. He got tired of their poor jokes, and he said it had to go. It was moved up a flight.

It stood meekly outside the door on the second floor, until the tenant there complained. She couldn't see it standing out there any more she said, tearfully, to the landlord because it was breaking up her home.

She was married to a man, she said, who yearned for children, and she herself was an unfortunate woman who was not able to bear a child. Therefore, the carriage was a constant reproach to her and an equally constant reminder to the husband of the fatherhood life denied him.

ANOTHER FLIGHT
So the carriage was taken up to the third floor and parked there. And meanwhile, Julia, the dusky maid who took it up every night and morning, smiled less and less and began talking of needing a change.

It was only a short time until the woman on the third floor called up the janitor, and demanded that it be taken away.
She, it seems, was a decorator. She had always yearned to have a corner cupboard or something substantial, flat-on-the-floor piece of furniture adorning the rather plain entry, but she could not tolerate a baby carriage. She said: "I have something that amounts almost to a phobia about wheels. I want to see furniture that is solidly moored. It is completely upsetting to me to see a wheeled conveyance there, and it, or I, will have to go!" It went.

Julie packed her bags and said that while Junior was a charming baby, dimpled and cuddly, his transportation problem was more than she could bear. There were elevators, and you didn't have to drag a baby buggy up four hills, etc.

THE SOLUTION
Then somebody discovered a subterranean cellar used for coal, and Junior's carriage was kept there for a while, but there was something ignominious about concealing it there. The mother decided that since there was really no place in the house for Junior's car, they were justified in breaking their lease and taking an apartment with a baby garage. They did. And the owner of the house made no objection to their leaving.

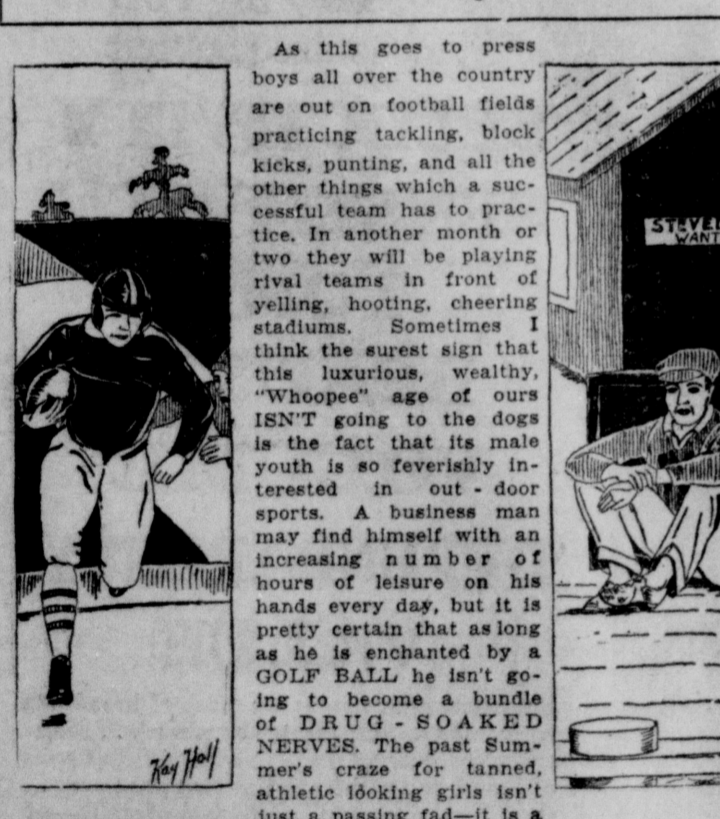

There was a funny skit on Broadway once, about the parents who looked for days for an apartment where their child would be accepted as well as themselves, and finally, footsore and weary, the husband said, "There is no other way," and shot the child. But the problem of where to keep the baby, and where to live after he comes, is no joke to the city apartment dweller. Tenants are quite justified in not desiring the baby's evening serenade floating in through the windows. Commuting is one solution, but is often a hardship for father. And not everyone can live on farms. Yes, a baby is a problem.

TUSTIN
TUSTIN, Sept. 20.—Royce Edson and Charles Lewis attended the Los Angeles County fair at Pomona Wednesday night.

A cooked food sale will be held by the women of the First Presbyterian church Saturday. The sale will be held in the Community hall, and will commence at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Is Football Educational

Sometimes I think BUT Sometimes I Think It Is BUT It Isn't
By Velva G. Darling

As this goes to press boys all over the country are out on football fields practicing tackling, block kicks, punting, and all the other things which a successful team has to practice. In another month or two they will be playing rival teams in front of yelling, hooting, cheering stadiums. Sometimes I think the surest sign that this luxurious, wealthy, "Whoopie" age of ours ISN'T going to the dogs is the fact that its male youth is so feverishly interested in out-door sports. A business man may find himself with an increasing number of hours of leisure on his hands every day, but it is pretty certain that as long as he is enchanted by a GOLF BALL he isn't going to become a bundle of DRUG-SOAKED NERVES. The past Summer's craze for tanned, athletic looking girls isn't just a passing fad—it is a definite step in the direction of healthy, interested, out-door activity as being a fundamental part of the attractiveness of woman. Football, with its body to body struggle, the prime importance it places on sheer brute strength, could not endure for a moment in a decadent society—it is, primarily, a game for youth. That it is America's favorite sport is our biggest guarantee for the future.

But, take the OTHER side to this football question. WHAT has happened to all our famous football stars? If football is so educational, why don't we ever hear from some of the names it has made famous? Red Grange—in the movies for a month or so, in a brawl or two, and out! Ernie Nevers—doing fairly well now in baseball, but nothing to brag about. There are other names—they don't occur to me, now—but names of boys who once kicked a "mean" football. Apparently, however, as far as kicking a goal in LIFE was concerned, football wasn't much of a help. Big muscles, the ability to shove and push and wriggle your way through a wall of heavy, perspiring, wild-eyed, muscular bodies is not a guarantee that you will know what to do with the eight hours a day of your first job. Life today, especially in the business world, is EVERYTHING that football is NOT. It is ease and "savoir faire," and diplomacy, and perfect grooming. It is NOT shoving your elbow into the other fellow's neck, and decidedly it is not being spurred on by a cheering crowd—quite the contrary.

Sometimes I think football is a good "What is wrong with this picture" lesson on what a well-educated man ought not to do. The youth who won the Edison scholarship the other day doesn't play football. He is on his school's fencing team—quite a difference in the mental attitude of a fencer and a left tackle! And, YET, it seems to me that as long as America continues to get a thrill out of the grimy, bloody, shoving game of football there is little danger of decadence getting a foothold. Cookie-eating mollycoddles, with a sickening flare for the feminine, never have anything to do with rough games like that. What is YOUR OPINION ON FOOTBALL?

Health and Beauty Go Hand in Hand

It is going to be great when you step into your favorite shop to try on fall clothes after finishing the 21-day diet, but the benefit to your general health is going to be far greater than the pleasure afforded by your new slim figure.

If frequent cathartics have been the rule with you, by now you find they are not necessary. . . there was "measure to our madness" when mineral oil salad dressings were used for all the salads.

Keep up the use of this salad dressing after you go off the diet, and complete the cure.

EXERCISE FOR LEGS AND BACK

Movement 10
Take the position used in exercise 9: Inhale, hold breath and with body rigid bring both feet and legs up at right angles with the body, then back. Each morning attempt to bring the legs a little farther back until your body makes an arc, and toes touch the floor above your head. This is the most difficult and beneficial of all the exercises given. Be careful not to overdo at first.

MENU FOR 12TH DAY OF 21-DAY DIET

BREAKFAST—One-half glass of orange juice, 3 slices of zwieback with 1/2 pat of butter, 1/2 cup of scalded skim-milk for coffee. No sugar.

LUNCH—All or part of quart of milk after cream has been removed. Follow with a glass of orange juice.

DINNER—Large plate of all-vegetable soup, 1/2 of broiled salt mackerel with small baked potato, large portion of beet greens. Plate of pepper-egg salad with plenty of lettuce and mineral oil French dressing. Clear tea or black coffee.

Calorie total for the day—1205

TODAY'S RECIPE

Pepper-Egg Salad (Individual Portion)
1 green pepper.
1 hard cooked egg.
Lemon gelatine.
Grated raw carrot.
Minced parsley.

For each person served allow 1 medium sized green pepper and 1 egg. The salad must be made at least six hours before serving time and then thoroughly chilled.

While the eggs are cooking prepare the gelatine mixture; soften 2 teaspoons of gelatine in a little cold water and stir into a cupful of boiling water made acid with lemon, and highly seasoned. A few drops of onion essence and a few grains of sugar improve the flavor.

Unpeep the peppers and half fill with cooled gelatine, add a big teaspoonful of grated carrot, a generous pinch of minced parsley and set in the ice box. When the gelatine is partially set place the egg in it, forcing the jelly up and around to cover. (If a slice

'BIG TIME' OPENS AT BROADWAY HERE

"Big Time" Fox movietone all-talking drama of back stage life, with Lee Tracy and May Clarke, opens a three-day engagement today in the Fox-Broadway theater.

Although not the greatest picture ever made or the one that cost the most money to produce, "Big Time" has an appeal that will go straight home to any audience. It will bring tears and smiles as it unfolds the story of backstage love and devotion.

The story concerns a young man and his wife whose dream is to become "big time" entertainers. Their success continues until their goal is in sight when another woman comes into the husband's life at a time when the wife has to desert the act temporarily for a "blessed event." When she returns she learns of the affair and leaves with her baby.

The "big time" act then fails and the husband finds himself down and out. He drifts to Hollywood where new fields open to him and where the picture has its final scenes.

In the cast besides the stars are Daphne Pollard, Josephine Dunn and Stepin Fetchit.

A Movietone playlet, with Miller and Lyle, and a Fox Movietone news reel complete the bill.

In slices, arrange on lettuce and season with mineral oil French dressing for those who are dieting.

Each of the filled peppers has a calorie value of 150, found in the protein of the egg and the non-fattening vegetables.

MY FAVORITE RECIPES will be sure to interest Mixing Bowl readers. This leaflet is offered free this week—all you have to do is to send in a stamped, self-addressed envelope and the recipes are yours.

DOUBLE BILL ENDS TODAY AT WALKER

"Masquerade," Fox all-talking movietone comedy drama of love, and "The Lawless Legion," Ken Maynard's latest western feature, which opened in the Fox-Walker theater yesterday, comes to a close today.

Both pictures are regular features and both thrillers. "Masquerade" is a picture concerning a gentleman and a gentleman burglar who are doubles. Mixed identities and a beautiful blond adventuress, who steps into the story to fall in love with the gentleman while he is suspected of being the gentleman burglar, makes the film an exciting one.

'Annapolis' Will Be Opening Movie In New West End

"Annapolis" is the Pathe film selected by C. E. Walker to open his new picture home here, the "West End." The picture will be shown today and tomorrow.

The story concerns a cadet in Annapolis who falls in love with the fiancée of his best friend. His struggles to be true to his friend, even after the friend had gotten in trouble and he has shouldered the blame, makes the picture a drama of intense interest and one that shows the spirit of the naval academy.

Johnny Mack Brown, former Alabama football star and member of the All-American team of several years ago, has the leading role. Jeannette Loff has the feminine lead. She will be remembered in "Hold 'Em, Yale" and other films here. Others in the cast are Hobart Bosworth, Charlotte Walker, Byron Munson and Maurice Ryan.

DRAMATIC STORY of the $6,000,000 BREAD

How the famous slo-baked Wonder Bread was developed by the Continental Baking Company after two years' intensive research. Why it has swept to quick success in all parts of America

WHAT A RECEPTION THESE WONDER BREAD SANDWICHES GET! This drawing by a popular artist shows a hostess being simply mobbed by her hungry guests.

Here's a typical store scene soon after Wonder Bread was announced. It was amazing to us, even, how quickly women took to this slo-baked bread. Once they try one loaf they just laugh at the idea of ordinary brands.

Madam: This advertisement describes for you a new and vastly better bread. $5,094,000 was spent on bakeries and equipment alone before it was placed on the market. More than $1,000,000 extra is spent each year to provide ingredients of super quality.

Reading time 3 minutes, 49 seconds

BY ALICE ADAMS PROCTOR

At last America has a scientifically perfect bread.

A bread that combines for the first time rare delicacy of flavor with remarkable nutritive and dietetic qualities.

A bread that slices quickly and easily and keeps fresh to the very last slice.

A bread, thus, that offers housewives the very advantages they have always sought.

It is a product of the Continental Baking Company, and its name is Wonder Bread.

The story of its development at a cost of six million dollars reads like fiction.

In 1925 Continental officials decided to produce a national bread. A truly perfect bread, worthy to be sold from coast to coast.

To accomplish this a group of bread experts were called together. Every modern aid was placed at their command. They were directed to spare neither effort nor expense to achieve their goal.

First they studied all the popular brands. They noted their advantages—and observed the features that were lacking.

They experimented with flour from all parts of the country. They sought ingredients with maximum dietetic value.

Develop remarkable recipe

At last after tedious months of effort they developed a remarkable recipe.

It calls for specially milled short patent flour, made only from the most nutritious part of the wheat, the very heart of the wheat berry. Spring wheat from the Northwest is carefully blended with the famous hard winter wheat from the grain belt of the Southwest.

Double the usual milk content is used. And that milk must be pasteurized. The sugar tests 99.7% and the salt 99.6% pure. The very highest grade!

Please Make This Amazing Toast Test

Here's a test that quickly proves the goodness of Wonder Bread. Take a slice of this slo-baked bread and a slice of any ordinary bread. Toast both. Then compare them. The Wonder Bread toast will be browned evenly. The other slice will be only partially browned. This test will astonish you. Just try it!

But even with this recipe something was lacking. The bread seemed dainty and delicious enough. And yet even then these men were not satisfied.

A special method of baking

It was then that they discovered a special method of baking. They would slo-bake this bread. A process designed to form a delicate crisp and firm crust. Also to seal in the delicious nut-like flavor of the wheat and prolong the freshness.

Their entire baking experience went into this supreme effort.

A delicate oven adjustment. The final trial. A notation. SUCCESS!

And thus, Madam, two years ago America's Wonder Bread was created. Thus many months of painstaking labor were finally crowned with success.

Every loaf same high standard

The development of Wonder Bread had been a mighty problem.

But unless the original goodness of that first scientifically perfect loaf could be duplicated millions of times a day, those months and months of tedious effort would be spent in vain.

So six million dollars was spent to put Wonder Bread on your table! New modern equipment was purchased. Bakeries were altered or enlarged to accommodate the new scientific baking devices. The vast sum of $5,094,000 was spent for this purpose alone. But that was not all.

Every housewife knows that modern baking equipment alone will not produce good bread. Of equal importance is the ingredients of which the loaf is made. To make every loaf of Wonder Bread up to our original standard, over a million dollars extra must be spent each year for the purchase of specially milled short patent flour and other quality ingredients which the Wonder Bread recipe demands. Only ingredients of extra quality are used in Wonder Bread. It is this extra quality that costs over a million dollars each year.

Thus, Madam, do we guarantee to twenty-five million Americans a truly amazing loaf of bread.

Why it builds health

A careful analysis soon established Wonder Bread as the cheapest and most efficient energy food you can buy.

Every loaf is packed with more than 1100 calories. Hence Wonder Bread largely supplies the necessary energy needed by the human body.

It provides, in addition, 60% of all the protein needed by your body. Protein, as you know, is the food element that replaces worn-out body tissues.

It contains, in addition, calcium and phosphate, which are so essential in the hardening of the bones and teeth of growing children.

Hence, Madam, Wonder Bread fosters family health amazingly. It offers in correct proportions the very elements needed to promote sturdy bodies and active minds.

Little wonder dietitians urge mothers for their children's sake to accept no other brand.

Today a sweeping success

As its advantages became known, Wonder Bread has swept to quick success. Women by the millions have been won to its use. Many from brands they have favored for years.

Today it is sold by grocers from coast to coast. It is acclaimed as the Nation's Wonder Bread.

The total cost involved in offering this bread to housewives staggers the imagination. The months of research that preceded the actual discovery plus the expenditures for new bakeries and special ovens and ingredients of extra quality amount to $6,094,000.

And yet in our opinion this is a modest price to pay for the remarkable health benefits this delicious bread offers the American people.

So obtain a loaf today at your grocer's. Observe its advantages.

Note how firm and tender it is. How smoothly and easily it slices. How fragrantly fresh it is to begin with. And how long it keeps that original freshness. You'll be delighted and amazed.

A Dainty Sandwich Guests AM Praise

By Alice Adams Proctor

Let me describe for you this week what many women consider one of my most successful sandwiches.

It is selected from my now famous sandwich booklet that many women have found so useful.

I call it my "Topless Sandwich."

Bacon Sandwich, Russian Style

Slices of bread (as many as needed). Toast on one side only. Spread untoasted side with butter. Cover with sliced uncooked and skinned tomatoes. Arrange three strips of uncooked bacon across each sandwich. Place a thin layer of cheese on top. Sprinkle with paprika. Set in hot baking oven till bacon curls and edges are browned. Serve at once on war... dolly, with ripe olives.

These sandwiches may be cut in circles for more dainty service, or the crusts may be left on and the sandwich provide a hearty course.

This, as I told you, is but one of many new recipes I have prepared. Your name and address brings you my "Wonder Sandwich Booklet." It's free. The coupon below is for your convenience.

Only this one word of warning. Attempt none of these sandwiches without Wonder Bread. This is highly important.

Wonder Bread, you see, slices easily and firmly. You can cut it delightfully thin. And, of course, its remarkable flavor adds immeasurably to the taste of the sandwich itself.

MRS. BROWN Discovers WONDER BREAD . . . Described in Pictures

SNAPSHOT ABOVE SHOWS TYPICAL BACK-FENCE SCENE. Women who try Wonder Bread just can't keep the good news to themselves. Here's one neighbor telling Mrs. Brown that any one who buys ordinary bread when Wonder Bread is available is fooling herself. You'll say the same thing.

HERE'S MRS. BROWN AT HER GROCER'S. Does he approve of Wonder? Just look at the expression on his face as he tells Mrs. Brown how Wonder Bread comes to his store fresh every morning and afternoon. Perhaps that's one reason why so many women now refuse to buy ordinary brands.

JUST LOOK AT THESE HAPPY FACES! Mr. Brown is pretty particular about his toast. But one look at him shows there's no complaint this time. Wonder Bread, you see, slices nice and thin. And the slo-baking we give it makes it toast more evenly than any other bread you can buy. The toast test shown in the oval above proves Wonder the finest bread you can buy.

LOOK LIKE JACK DEMPSEY? No, it's just Mr. Brown again, showing his little son how Wonder Bread will make him big and strong. This slo-baked bread is packed with vital food elements for growth and energy. It contains calcium, and phosphates, too, to harden teeth and strengthen growing bones.

Economical Purchases

Do you know that about one-third of the money spent in the United States is spent for meat. This seems a high percentage, but it is due to the fact that so many people demand the expensive steaks and chops. Fortunately, there is just as much nourishment in the cheaper cuts of meat, and if they are properly cooked they will be deliciously tender and palatable, particularly cuts of good steer beef—and you are sure to get this at Seidel's Markets. Seidel's Markets feature Cudahy's Puritan Steers. They are the choicest that money can buy.

Folger-Flavor

comes from Central America

Nature puts her richest, full-bodied flavor into the coffees grown in fertile volcanic mountain soil of Central America. Folger-Flavor is the result of this careful selection. It is a different type of coffee—never "thin" or "flat." Compare with ordinary coffee—we take the risk—and we believe you will favor it thereafter.

TRY THIS CONVINCING TEST

Get Folger's Coffee from your grocer today. Drink it tomorrow morning. The next morning drink the coffee you have been using. The third morning drink Folger's again. Then decide which you like best. If, for any reason you do not choose Folger's, your grocer will gladly refund the full purchase price. We will pay him. That's fair, isn't it?

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY NAL COCHRAN — PICTURES BY KNICK

The eagle that let Clowny drop soared right away. He didn't stop to see the Tiny landed safe. What did the eagle care? The bird had saved him from a mess and he was satisfied, we guess. And so it wasn't long until he disappeared in air.

Down, down, came Clowny with much speed. "Some good luck I'll need. If I land plump upon the ground, 'twill ruin me, I fear. The Tinsles, though, have spread a net. I'll land right in the thing, I'll bet. They're always glad to help me and it's lucky they are here."

"Course he was right and the Tinsles stood and held the net as best they could. "He is going to land," one of them cried. "I'll bounce him 'way up in the air and give him one more tiny scare. Then we will help him to the ground and he will be all right."

Kerplump! Wee Tiny landed sound and never even touch the ground. The Tinsles tossed him once or twice and stood him on his feet. "Hurray!" cried Clowny. "Thank you, friends. And thus another real scare ends. There are no other little folks whom I would rather meet."

The friendly carpenter then came right up and said: "I have a game that I think all of you will like. Some ponies I must make. Once more I'll use my saw machine. I have fixed the blades until they're keen. I'll put a tree trunk in. Let's hope it doesn't break."

Into the big machine it went and "bout a half an hour was spent in hearing saws all buzzing loud. And then there came a shout. "Hurray," cried Scouty, "this is good. You have done just what you said you would." And sure enough — four little wooden ponies jumped right out.

(The Tinymites plan a race in the next story.)

Missing Letter Links

RULES

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example: to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE, TIE, PIE, PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters can not be changed.

EVENING SALUTATION

"Confidence means two things: it means that one is certain of one's ability to perform the assigned task; and secondly, it means one enjoys the work in the assurance that one can do it well."
—William Lyons Phelps. (The Delineator.)

THE PLACE OF CHEATING IN LIFE

A few days ago nearly a thousand women, representing the Women's Committee of Five Thousand, met at a dinner in San Francisco. At this meeting, these ladies passed a resolution pledging themselves not only to the enforcement of the law, but further pledged themselves that they would abstain from any social function at which liquor was served.

While we might moralize on the low condition society has reached in respect to the observance of law when such action in mass is needed to support the law, yet as it is facts and not theory we are dealing with, the women are to be congratulated that they took such action, and it should spread.

As good citizens, men and women should not only determine that they will personally observe the law, but the action these women have taken furnishes a fine example of what further should be done, namely, that they should not countenance in a social way the violation of law by others.

Life is a great game. Just as in the playing of the games of childhood and youth, rules must be laid down for the governing of the game; so in life's work, whether it be social, industrial, or whatever form its activities may take, rules of the game are laid down. They are called laws in life. In the playing of the games of youth, we hold that one in contempt who cheats and violates the rules, and he is driven from the diamond or the football field or the tennis court, if his violation is found by repetition to be intentional. The reason is that he is trying to gain by cheating, depending upon the others to harmonize themselves with the rules. The man or woman, who in playing the game of life, violates its laws in the same attitude. He is trying to take advantage of those who are obeying the law. He is cheating. And these women have agreed by this resolution that they will not cheat themselves, and they will not tolerate or join in social functions where cheating is going on. Such action as this will aid in preventing our becoming a nation of cheats.

Incidentally, if the cheater, whether it be at football, basketball, or any other game, realizes that he is held in contempt, the heinousness of the offense dawns upon him, and his standards of conduct may be raised by the light in which his actions appear to others. Hence by his very punishment he overcomes his tendency to wrongdoing. The best service that anyone can render any individual who is violating the Constitution and the law, is by impressing that individual with the fact that his action is held in contempt; that he is a fraud and a cheat. It will help make a man of him, and thus strengthen the morale of our country.

A dispatch from Paris says that time has melted Gene Tunney's bearing toward the press. Tunney? Oh, yes, he was the fellow who spoke at Yale about something or other, wasn't he?

THE OPENING OF THE FOOTBALL SEASON

With the opening football season there come the usual charges against some of the colleges of introducing what are called "rings." Much excitement exists among the so-called "Big Ten" of the middle west because of the charge made against the Ohio State team that one of the players has been subsidized to the extent of $25 per week with free board. An investigation has been started, and naturally there is considerable interest in the results.

It is unfortunate that there is an absence of the true spirit of sportsmanship in some colleges. We do not for a moment believe that the college authorities themselves are responsible for such things. In fact, the college authorities have been pretty much against all such methods. But the alumni oftentimes are so eager for a winning team that they lose the whole secret of college sports. There is no disgrace in losing if the game is well and honestly played. There is a disgrace in winning when the victory comes as a result of questionable methods and tactics. It was Professor James who once said that getting the ball to the goal is not the chief object in a football game. If it were, some member of the team might sneak out the night before and put it there. The only merit is to get it there in a clean and sportsmanlike contest.

Unfortunately it is this that some interested in inter-collegiate athletics forget. Let professional sportsmen hire their players. But amateur sport calls for men who are willing to put their best into the game without the hope of reward, except such as will bring honor to the team and to the college whose letters they wear.

This is the time of year when a man discovers that his vests no longer match his suits.

A WORTHWHILE ACTION

The city of London has decided to present the "Freedom of the City" to Prime Minister James Ramsay MacDonald and to Chancellor Philip Snowden of the Exchequer. These are the two great leaders of the Labor Party now in power in Great Britain.

We wonder what their emotions must be when they remember the difficulties they encountered during the war for their peace views, and which views, by the way, they have never changed.

BUTLER LEADS THE WAY

General Smedley Butler, has given the little town of Quantico in Virginia, a lesson in economics as well as in the enforcement of law. He is in command of a group of men there, numbering 2,000. They comprise 80 or 90 per cent of the purchasing power of the town.

The prohibition law was not enforced. General Butler found one of his highest ranking non-commissioned officers tending bar for one of the big bootleggers. His ire was aroused, and he proposed "to show those birds" that there was some respect for law somewhere. So he marched his company of men out of town, and declared to the mayor and the business men that they would not return until the town was cleaned up and made dry. And then how busy "business" got, to see that the law was enforced. When there is money in it, everyone can become interested, even in law enforcement. They drove the bootleggers out of town, and Butler and his army returned.

We recall an incident of similar import in the local option days in a little town near Cleveland, Ohio. The shops of a certain railroad were situated there. Many men were employed. A local option election was called, and the liquor dealers had lined up many of the business men on their side on the ground that liquor selling made a "live" town. In the middle of the fight the railroad sent a letter to the mayor, telling him that if the town went "wet," they would move their shops to a town that was dry, and the liquor crowd was deserted over night by every business man in that little city. They were thoroughly convinced that the dry regime was the best regime, and the drys carried by an overwhelming vote. Maybe General Butler had heard of that incident!

Secretary Davis says it is not too fantastic to say that the time will come when the day's work can be done by pulling a lever or pressing a button. But there will still be golf.

OUTWORN LAWS OF EVIDENCE

When District Attorney Fitts was making his argument for admission of certain testimony in the Pantages case yesterday, in the course of the argument which was entirely upon the rules of evidence, Mr. Fitts said:

Let's not forget after all else is said, that Rokumoto would still be alive and walking the streets, if Mrs. Pantages hadn't killed him. It wasn't the doctor who gave the anesthetic that was Rokumoto's murderer—it was Mrs. Pantages, there, with her own two hands. Mr. Steuer, attorney for the defense, replied: That's not a legal argument; that's a mob speech—not worthy of an officer sworn to uphold the law.

It is refreshing sometimes to note an attorney getting down to fundamentals, breaking through the network of technical legal restrictions which might prevent the facts being presented to the jury. In this particular case, however, the judge, who was within his discretionary rights, reopened the case for the state, and gave them the privilege of asking the question, as the District Attorney desired.

Many of the rules of evidence, like many other rules and laws originally determined in the interest of justice, tend to defeat it and should be reframed.

Germany sent over the biggest gas bag in the world, the Graf Zeppelin. America has been sending assorted sizes of gas bags to Europe for years.

PROHIBITION NOT TEMPERANCE

An article in one of the Hearst papers is headed "Britain Growing More Sober Under Temperance." The head is probably calculated to suggest to the reader that "temperance" is better than prohibition.

However, as one reads the article he finds that the temperance which has resulted is due to prohibited hours and prohibited conduct in relation to drinking, forcing people to prohibit themselves from drinking. In other words, the extent of their temperance is due to some form of prohibition.

Is It the Schoolma'am's Fault?

The reopening of the public schools this fall has caused the annual revival of one of the most ancient jokes in the country—the compassionate chuckle about the unwilling schoolboy, dragged back to the distasteful imprisonment of the school house.

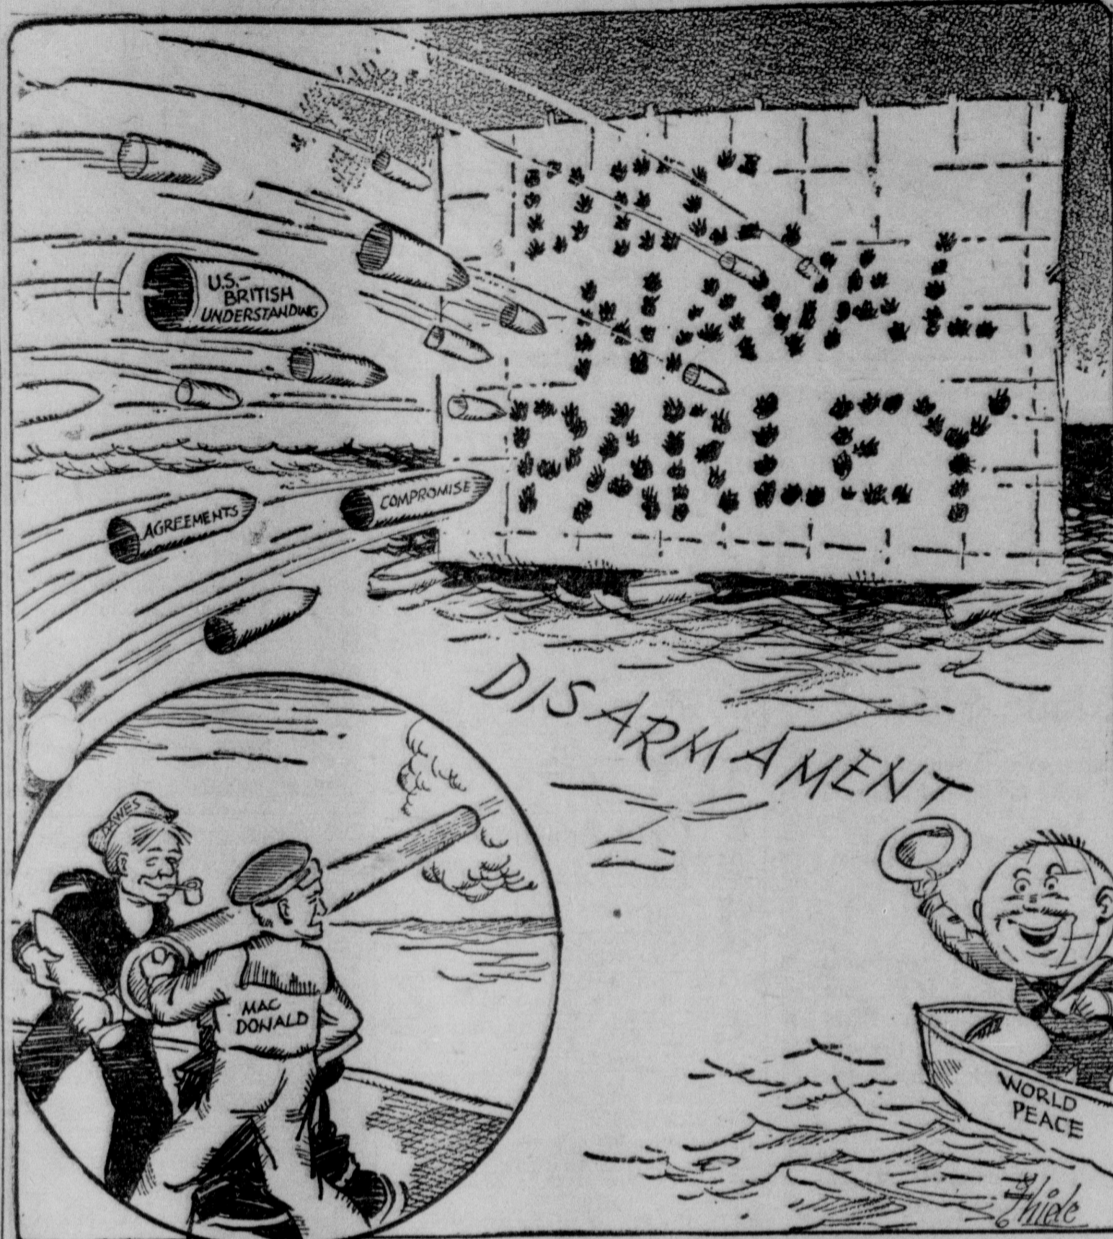

It strikes us that the joke constitutes a sort of challenge to the school boards of the nation. Surely the process of educating children might be made a thing that the children would actually enjoy; anyone who has ever observed the eagerness with which youngsters go after information will agree that they really want to learn.

Perhaps they really aren't as reluctant to go back to school as our cartoonists and jokesmiths think. Our pedagogues are wiser than they were a generation ago. But if there is a widespread unwillingness on the part of children to resume their studies, it would seem that a direct criticism of the schools be implied.

The Pacific West
Pasadena Star-News

Japan, China and the vast populous region known as the Near West, are the best customers of the United States in a commercial way. In the first half of the last fiscal year the United States exported to these countries commodities valued at more than $411,000,000, an increase of more than ten per cent over the corresponding period of the previous year. The great trading fields for the Pacific West of the United States in the future lie in this Near West and in the countries of Latin America. Aviation development across the Pacific will have important bearing on this expansion of Pacific trade.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

FAIR WARNING

A man if he found he was running around,
In the general style of apparel,
Which forms the array of a woman today,
Would hunt for the handiest barrel.
With his trousers and coats, the weight that he totes
Is sapping his strength and his vigor
But he dare not wear less in the matter of dress
For fear of exposing his figger.

The scientists say there will soon come a day
When man must make hideous payment
For the burden he bears when through lifetime he wears
Such a needless collection of raiment.
It is bending his form like a tree in a storm—
Though of course quite a little more slowly—
And some day will efface all the masculine race
And women will master it, solely.

But when woman, dear heart, had found she could part
Not only with ground-sweeping dresses
But could go on her ways without rib-crunching stays
And even could lop off her tresses,
She cared not a red what was hinted or said
By relative, husband or stranger;
She's for comfort today in her own selfwilled way
And nothing whatever can change her.

Man is facing the loss of his job as the boss
Now that woman no longer is bodiced
With whalebone and stay in the old-fashioned way—
Man is paying too much to be modest.
Let him lighten his coat and uncollar his throat,
Nor shrink from the world's mocking vision
Or this creature sublime in the due course of time
Will be only a source of derision.

Income Be Distributed?By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

When consumers receive enough money to buy the output of industry, they spend it. When they spend enough, industry goes right on producing. Industry is set up for that very purpose.

But sometimes consumers do not spend enough. Why? The trouble is not the wrong flow of money, some people say, but the flow of money to the wrong people. No use giving more money to the surfeited rich! That will not bring more buyers into the markets.

The fact that some people have made a billion dollars by speculating in stocks this year has not enabled coal and textile workers to become better customers. No one can deny that.

A more even distribution of dollar income surely would help to flatten out the peaks and fill in the valleys of business. If income, trade and employment would be better sustained.

But a wider distribution of dollar income is not enough. The total dollar income must be larger—constantly larger—in order to keep pace with the growing goods income.

Pop was reading the paper, saying, By golly, this fellow hits the nail on the head, he understands the subject and he knows how to express himself.

What's it about? ma sed, and pop sed, Its a darn well written article on this disarmament business.

O, you mean about the different countries, ma sed. Im very interested in that, I often read the headlines. Read it to me, she sed.

You awt to read it yourself, pop sed. You awt to get in the habit of reely reading these articles of wold intrist. Just the headlines wont get you anywhere. Thats all rite for anybody getting their eyes examined, but if your intristred in exercising your mind youve got to go a little deeper, he sed.

Your quite rite, Willyum, and in fact P. Willis Hinkle had an article in the paper the other day saying exactly the same thing, ma sed, and pop sed, Then I must be rite.

Give me the article, Ill read it rite away ma sed, and pop sed, Thats the spirit.

And he handed me the paper, saying, Give it back when your through, theres a tariff article I want to read.

Of course, anybody of any sents is in favor of disarmament, pop sed, and ma sed, Well I dont exactly mean disarmament but its something very close to it, its practically the same principal, I was reading an article here about the leading lady tennis players of the world insisting on their right not to wear stockings on the courts if they dont want to.

Yee gods what that got to do with disarmament? pop sed, and ma sed, It concerns what to take off and what to leave on, duzzent that remind you of disarmament?

Help ad sucker, give me that tariff article, pop sed. And he took the paper back and got behind it and stayed there.

Life

A TALE OF INTOLERANCE

The literature of fable is a mine of mellow wisdom. I heard again the other day the old French Fable of the Mirrors. Toward the end of a bright afternoon, a perfectly flat mirror met a convex mirror while walking in the garden.

"I think you are very silly," said the flat mirror to the convex mirror, "to represent nature in the way you do. You must be mad, or you would not give every figure a large belly and a small head and feet, and change all the straight lines into curved lines."

"It is you who distort nature," sharply replied the convex mirror. "Your flat shape imagines that the trees are quite straight because it makes them so, and that everything is flat outside you as well as inside you. The trunks of the trees are curved. That is the truth. You are but a deceptive mirror."

"I do not receive anybody," said the flat mirror. "It is you, friend Convex, who caricature men and things."

The dispute was at white heat when the great French mathematician, d'Alembert, chanced to pass that way. "My friends," said the great d'Alembert to the quarrelling mirrors, "you are both right and both wrong. Lou both reflect objects according to the law of optics. The figures that you receive are, both of them, of geometrical exactness. They are both perfect. A concave mirror would produce a third reflection, very different, but also perfect. As for nature herself, nobody knows her true figure, and it is even probable that she has no figure at all save in the mirrors that reflect her. Learn then, gentlemen, not to call each other mad men because you do not receive the same reflections of things."

We are all by nature dogmatists. Long ago someone wisely said that orthodoxy and heterodoxy are simply technical names for my dog and your dog.

No lesson is quite so hard to learn as that truth is relative. It would be good to print this Fable of the Mirrors in the campaign text-book of every political party and in the catechism of every religious organization.

SMACK 'EM

"Josephine, if you make a noise while I'm telephoning I'll smack you good."

Josephine, aged four, looked frightened and stood stock still where she was until her mother finished saying what she had to say about the refreshments for the bridge party.

"Go on now. Play with your doll and carriage. And Josephine, remember. One scrap with Merivale this morning and I'll bring you into the house and smack you good."

Little Josephine said, "Yes, mother," very meekly and went out to play. It seemed quite a while to grandmother, watching from the porch windows, before Josephine warmed up enough to play. Merivale was a husky young woman of five and she took over the doll and the carriage and Josephine. "Now I just say, How do you do, Mrs. Murfee," and you do, Mrs. Murfee," and you must say 'How do you do, Mrs. Greenleaf.' Say it."

Obediently Josephine said it. Patiently she said everything else that Merivale ordered. "Now you must sit there until I come back. You must make believe you're waiting for a telephone call from me. My mother is calling me but I'll be back. You wait."

"No," said Josephine. "I'm going to wheel my carriage down the walk until you come back."

"You stay right there," said Merivale, giving Josephine a smart shove. Head over heels went Josephine who had not been prepared for the attack. Her head came down hard on the root of the pine tree and she lifted her voice in outraged righteousness. Mother came speedily.

"Didn't I tell you what I'd do with you if you quarreled today? In you come." Without asking a question, without giving a thought to the child's side of the story, Josephine's mother took a slipper and spanked her well. "And now you can go to bed for the afternoon."

When the sound of the child's sobbing had died away grandmother spoke. "Daughter, I've been with you a week. In that time you have smacked and whipped and beaten Josephine every day. You have a habit of doing it now and I believe you don't realize what you are doing. That child next door bossed yours all morning and at the first sign of spirit she showed, pushed her head over heels onto the root of the tree. Then you whipped her and put her to bed. It's beyond me."

"Well, I didn't know that. But I've got to train her to keep quiet so her father can have peace in the house. He says 'smack her and she will behave herself,' and I think he's right. I haven't time to reason with her. You're too easy. Too soft altogether."

"Maybe. I never smacked you. I can't stand this continual smacking of Josephine so I'm going home."

Smacking is easy. Soon it is a habit. Like most of the easy ways in life it is a trap for the foolish.

ARTHUR'S INAUGURATION

On Sept. 20, 1881, Chester Alan Arthur was sworn in as the 21st president of the United States. President Garfield had died the day previously, a victim of an assassin's bullet.

The 21st president was born at Fairfield, Vt., on Oct. 5, 1829, the son of Scotch-Irish parentage. He was graduated from Union College in 1848 and soon became conspicuous as an attorney in New York. Arthur became famous in the pre-war period by his brilliant work in the Lemmon case, involving the validity, under certain conditions, of the Fugitive Slave Law which resulted in a decision that a slave brought into New York while in transit from one slave state to another was, ipso facto, free.

During the war between the states he served as inspector-general and as quartermaster-general of New York.

A Republican, and an active one, he was made collector of the port of New York in 1871 by President Grant. Four years later he was re-appointed. Later he was removed by President Hayes.
